KNOX REVEALS 10 AMERICAN PLANES LOST

Believes Enemy Got Only Four, But Six Others Are Still Missing.

'NO WAR'S SAFE'

Patterson Says More Planes Are Needed After Tour of Pacific Fronts.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Japanese bombers caused slight damage in a raid on Funafuti, American base near enemy-held Gilbert Islands, the navy announced today, also reporting loss of the U. S. submarine Grenadier and two American submarine chasers. The Grenadier, a newer underwater ship, carried a crew of approximately 65. It was presumed to have gone down in the Pacific. The subchasers—the SC 694 and SC 696—were sunk in the Mediterranean on Aug. 23 by enemy bombers. Each carried a crew of approximately 27 but the navy did not reveal the extent of casualties.

WASHINGTON—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox agreed today that the latest American air raid on Paramushiru, Japanese naval base in the Kurile islands, was a comparatively costly one in U. S. aircraft lost but added that "nobody's invented a safe war."

He told his news conference that only four of 10 planes missing may have been lost by enemy action.

"What happened to the other six we don't know," he said. "There may be a chance for some of their crews, but it's pretty bad news for them up in those waters."

The Kurile raid, fourth in that area, gave point to Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson's ap-

City's Budget For 1944 Cut $10,000 By County Board

Mansfield's budget for 1944 came back to the city today from the county budget commission which cut the allocation to approximately $10,000 under the amount the city received for operations and debt retirement this year.

With the prospective $10,000 reduction for next year, the city will get approximately $372,170 for its general fund as compared with the $381,983 that was asked for 1944.

Although the city's tax rate was dropped four-tenths of a mill for 1944, the actual reduction in the amount of revenue the city

U. S. Nationals Sail on Exchange, Ship From Yokohama.

LONDON —(U.P.)— A Tokyo dispatch of the German official news agency reported that the Japanese exchange ship Teia Maru sailed from Yokohama today, carrying American Nationals who formerly resided in Japan and Manchuguo to the Portuguese colony of Goa where they will be exchanged.

The ship is due to arrive at the port of Marmagoa in the neutral colony on the west side of India during the latter part of October, it was said.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt informed the senate today that the war relocation authority (WRA) began early this month to segregate from the 15,000 persons in Japanese relocation centers those who had indicated loyalty to Japan.

Sen. Wheeler Demands Vote On Draft Ban

Insists Father Call Be Delayed, Says Canada Plans Demobilizing.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Congress, refreshed after its first summer recess since 1939, reconvened at noon today to consider critical problems of manpower, taxation, inflation, and postwar policy.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., said today he would resist vigorously any attempts to delay a senate vote on his bill to ban the drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

"I'm going to insist on a vote at the earliest opportunity," Wheeler told reporters upon his return from a summer vacation.

Wheeler said he would not agree to plans of Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky to delay a vote on the bill, now on the senate calendar, until military leaders can present new estimates of their manpower needs.

Wheeler charged that the army is the greatest "waster of manpower in the country."

He said the transportation system is bogged down because of unnecessary troop movements, and colleges are "filled with boys in the army that are not being used."

"We also have camps all over the country filled with men who are lying around doing nothing and who are anxious to get to the fighting fronts," he said. "Finally, the army is releasing able bodied men of 38 who could be retained for ground work instead of breaking up American homes."

He pointed out that Canada already has announced plans for demobilizing some of its combat troops.

Chairman Andrew J. May, D., Ky., of the house military affairs committee also said the Canadian action was "an irrefutable argument against drafting fathers" in this country.

QUAKES FELT

Series of Tremors Reported From Direction of Japan.

NEW YORK —(AP)— A series of earthquake tremors, in the general direction of Japan, was reported today by Father Joseph J. Lynch, seismologist for Fordham university, who said they had continued intermittently since midnight.

The first severe shock was timed at 12:06.31 a. m. (EWT) and the second at 12:17.32 a. m., both about 7700 miles from New York in a northwesterly direction. Then there were many minor shocks until 3:36.58 a. m., when there was a "quite severe" one. This occurred about 7300 miles away.

In a Tokyo broadcast last Saturday, Domei news agency said 1,400 persons had been killed or seriously injured at Tottori by Japan's most severe earthquake in 10 years.

AT NEW LOW

Ohio Relief Costs Plummet To $514,000 In August.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio relief costs plummeted to a new monthly low of $514,000 in August, compared with $522,578 in July, the state welfare department reported today. The relief bill for the first eight months of 1943 will total an estimated $4,786,675, down 44 per cent from the corresponding 1942 period and 60 per cent from the 1941 figure.

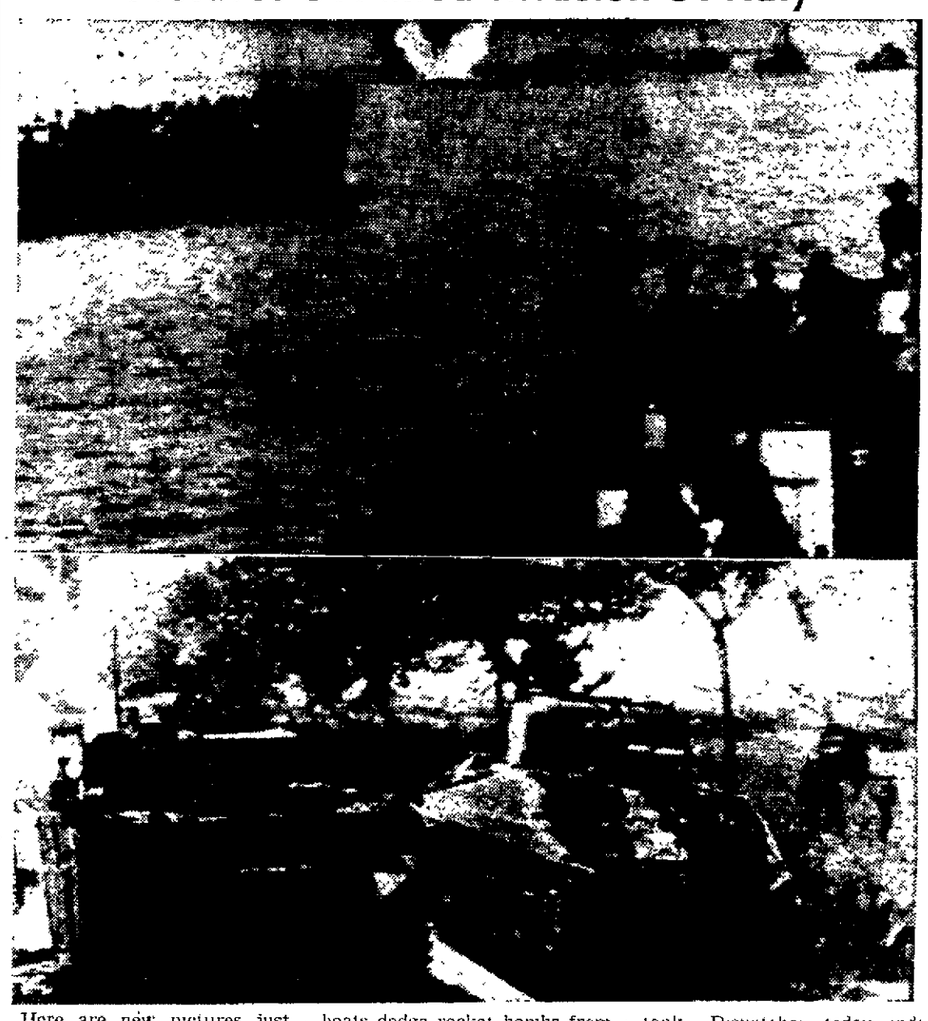
Pictures Of Allied Invasion Of Italy



Here are new pictures just released on the Allied invasion of Italy. The pictures are Signal corps radio telephotos. At the top, heavily-loaded LST boats dodge rocket bombs from high-flying German planes. Below, General Sherman tanks, advancing inland, pass a knocked-out German Mark VI tank. Dispatches today indicated that the American Fifth army, which has been meeting fierce opposition ever since it landed, had been forced to yield some ground to the Germans.

SUCCESS LOOMS FOR BOND DRIVE

U. S. Confident 3rd War Loan Quota Will Be Met: County Raises $1,106,542.

While treasury officials expressed confidence today that the national Third War Loan drive would be a success, Richland county had piled up $1,106,542 toward its $6,060,000 goal.

A report from Washington today show $2,369,000,000 of the 15 billion dollar quota already in the till. On a percentage basis Delaware led the 48 states today with 28 per cent of its quota already in.

According to Chairman H. G. Brunner today's figure represents the number of bonds sold through the banks of the county. He said other issuing agents and the post-offices have made no reports as yet.

Wednesday, Mansfield merchants will take stock of the number of bonds they have sold and report it to drive officials. They expect to have a large portion of their $400,000 to report by that time.

COSTLY SHOT

Mansfielder Pays $21.30 For Shooting Squirrel.

It cost A. R. Guill, Mansfield, $21.30 today to shoot one squirrel out of season.

Guill, who jumped the gun for the hunting season by eight days, was arrested by C. I. Kimmel, county game protector, and charged with possessing a squirrel out of season. He pleaded guilty in municipal court and was fined $15 and costs which totaled $21.30.

Kimmel said the squirrel, all prepared for the dinner table, was found in Guill's trailer home near the county fairground. The squirrel season in Richland county opens Sept. 22.

1-Day Fair Thursday Shows Displays Of Richland Youths

Richland county's rural boys and girls will display their work projects for the year and celebrate the completion of their summer club program Thursday at a one-day county fair which will be free to the public.

Hundreds of entries of livestock, poultry, vegetables, sewing projects, and school displays had been received today and will soon begin filling the art hall, school building, and livestock barns, R. D. Hale, fair board secretary, said.

The one-day exposition, planned especially for the 4-H clubs, schools, Future Farmer groups, and vocational agriculture classes, will serve as an experiment for the fair board which had a difficult time deciding this year whether to hold a fair or call it off.

The young people will compete for cash prizes ranging from $2 for individual exhibits up to $30 for first place in the school classification.

The fair gates will open at 9 a. m. and will close at dark Thursday. There will be none of the usual concessions and rides and no racing, since loss of the grandstand in a fire last year would prohibit that even if the board decided on a racing program.

Pupils who will have displays at the fair will be excused from school Thursday, but the schools will not be dismissed to permit everybody to attend, County Supt. Boyd Robinson said today. Pupils who plan to exhibit must ask in advance for permission to be absent Thursday, Robinson said.

Nazis Admit Evacuation of Key To Dnieper Bulwark and Railway Center.

FLIGHT HINTS TRAP

Small Bridges, Ferries Only Way For Hitler Army To Get Across River.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Russian troops captured the fortress city of Bryansk last night, breaching the Germans' main defense line before the Dnieper river by seizure of that pivot of central and southern German battlelines and center of a railway spiderweb serving both fronts.

Evacuation of the keystone city, held by the Germans since October, 1941, was asknowledged today by the German radio soon after Moscow reported that the onpouring Red army was closing in on the city on the west bank of the Desna river.

Disruption of the rail network vital for German winter transport heightened belief in London that the backward-scurrying Nazis would not be able to halt their retreat now before reaching the west bank of the Dnieper.

The speed of their withdrawal toward Kiev and Dnieperopetrovsk on the lower reaches of the river, where only three inadequate bridges and ferry crossings are available, raised hopes that large forces of Nazis might be trapped on the east bank of the Dnieper or even be overtaken while attempting to cross it.

The German broadcast by DNB declared Bryansk (normal population 87,000) had been evacuated in good order, and the troops had not been encircled or injured to "a considerable degree."

Again Berlin preceded Moscow in announcing the victory for Russian arms.

"The city of Bryansk," the broadcast said, "which first became known in this war by the great twin battle of Vyazma and Bryansk in the autumn of 1941, in the course of which German troops surrounded and captured several Soviet armies with their entire materiel, was evacuated by the Germans during Monday night."

"It was undoubtedly the inten-

SHIPS SCUTTLED

Japs Say Italian Liner and Gunboat Sunk at Shanghai.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Japan's Domei news agency reported today that the luxury liner Conte Verde and the Italian gunboat Lepanto had been scuttled by their crews at Shanghai following the signing of Italy's armistice with the Allies.

Domei, in reporting the seizure of Italian vessels in Japanese and Japanese-controlled waters, also asserted that 17 other Italian vessels including six warships, were damaged in apparent attempts by their crews to prevent them from falling into Nipponese hands.

The Domei announcements were reported by the office of war information.

British Eighth Army Rushes to Battle Sector

Yanks, Allies Reported Driven From Positions Near Eboli In Bitter Fighting As Montgomery Drives Within 120 Miles Of Salerno.

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)

Huge sea-borne Allied reinforcements were reported moving into the bloody Salerno beachhead in Italy today and British Eighth army troops dashed north along the coast within 100 miles of a junction with Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's hard-pressed American Fifth army forces.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK — (INS) — The British radio today quoted a report from an Exchange Telegraph correspondent from North Africa which compared the situation at Salerno with that at Gallipoli in 1915 in the first World war. The Allies suffered a crushing defeat at Gallipoli.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—Fierce German counter-attacks have regained some ground against the 24-mile Allied bridgehead near Salerno, it was announced today, but British troops battling up from southern Italy are only some 100 miles from making a junction to support the Fifth army.

The bloody Salerno fighting was equal to the desperate battles at Gallipoli in World War I.

(German broadcasts declared the Allies probably are withdrawing to sea as many troops as possible "which means that they have abandoned the enterprise altogether." There was no Allied comment on this report.

(The Nazis contended the British were "decisively beaten," and that the Americans were in flight after suffering 8,000 to 10,000 casualties.

(U. S. troops were thrown out of occupied positions in the Eboli area, southeast of Salerno itself, after being repulsed with heavy losses in attacks on German lines southeast of Eboli, another broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said. The Germans counter-attacked Monday along a wide front, it added.)

Allied headquarters announced that the British had captured Cosenza in an advance up the toe, and seized Bari 65 miles above Brindisi on the Adriatic coast.

The British were pushing up past Cosenza and were only about 100 miles south of the lower hinge of the Fifth army bridgehead. Eboli is 15 miles southeast of Salerno itself.

Allied tanks, infantry and planes supported by thunderous naval guns battled the Germans seeking to widen the Salerno area bridgehead only several miles deep at the maximum advance.

The points where the Nazis regained ground were not identified by headquarters.

Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring threw two armored divisions and the famous reconstituted Hermann Goering division against Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth

WHIP HAND: Allied Air Force Still Superior In Battle Area

(By International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—The Allied air force still holds absolute superiority over the Salerno battle area, well-informed observers said today.

Allied warplanes in the past few days have shattered all Nazi airmen's bids for a comeback while at the same time mercilessly bombing and strafing German ground forces.

In answer to ill-founded reports that German air strength is gaining the upper hand at Salerno, authentic quarters point out that the average number of Allied sorties flown daily since the Salerno landings is 800 against the record number of 120 German fighters which appeared Monday.

Allied air losses were negligible compared to the German air force's loss of 12 planes that day.

Some of the Allied pilots insist that in many instances the Nazi fliers have shown inexperience and that they often evade combat.

A seasoned observer said in a dispatch from Salerno: "We have

LOSSES: Nazis Pay Heavily For Counter-Attack On Yanks

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
(U.P. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, Near Salerno, Italy, Sept. 13, —(Delayed)—The Germans advanced in a savage counter-attack today to strengthen their hold on a strategic highway on the central sector of the Salerno front, but the probably temporary success cost them their heaviest losses of the campaign.

The Americans had anticipated the enemy thrust and parried its full force with a quick side-step-ping movement, pumping rifle fire and artillery shells into the Germans as they drew back. American warships aided the ground troops by lobbing shells from Salerno gulf into the enemy forces.

The counter-attack was part of an apparent suicidal German attempt to break through to the Allied-held beaches and split the invasion forces.

While troops battled for the highway, which previously had changed hands several times, other Allied units pushed forward several miles in the southern sector despite tough resistance and consolidated both northern and southern flanks.

The northwest African air forces had one of their biggest days since the landings last Thursday. The tactical and strategic forces, including wings based both in Sicily and North Africa, broke up attempt after attempt by enemy aircraft to break through and attack ground forces.

Bombers and fighters of the NWAAF also bombed and strafed the enemy's rear lines and communications.

CHAPTER XXI

Marshal Carson met Sugg driving into Atoka on his way back from the ranch. Sugg hailed him.

"Want to see you, Carson," he called across the street.

The marshal crossed through the dust. He had been looking for Sugg; in fact, was waiting for him at the moment. The boss of the wagon yard had told him Sugg would be back at any time.

Carson hoped that a talk would clear up certain points in his mind. That Sugg was in partnership with the Hickorys as far as the train robbery hold-up was concerned he did not doubt for a moment. What bothered him was grounds for arrest.

"That Bob Lee has been trying to talk himself out of trouble by lieing about me," Sugg began. "His story is silly and ridiculous, but some fools believe it."

"The best way to kill a lie is to disprove it," Carson replied. "Establish an alibi that can't be shaken. He says you were with the Hickorys at Sunk Bayou and tried to kill him. If you can show you were somewhere else that knocks his story into a cocked hat."

"Does a man of my standing have to prove he isn't a murderer when a cowhand spreads slander?" Sugg demanded angrily.

"Sometimes. Point is, so many people have suspicious minds and like to believe the worst of successful folks. Unless you clear this up I am afraid it will keep popping at you the rest of yore life."

The marshal had touched the other on a tender spot. Soon this territory would become a state. It was Hiram Sugg's fixed intention to be its first governor. Such suspicion would be a handicap to his plans.

"I wasn't within a dozen miles of Sunk Bayou. That scoundrel Lee knows it. He left me for dead on the road, taking my horse with him. When you showed up he made the only play he could to explain being there."

"How long before anybody found you?" Carson asked.

now is the time for all of us to

"Nobody found me. I came to, after quite a while. There was a trace running through the brush from the road. I crawled along it. My wound bled a lot. Two or three times I fainted. Night came. I lay under a cedar for an hour or two. After a while I found myself on the bank of a creek. How long I was there I don't know, but I washed the wound and bathed my head. The fever was running pretty high, but I wasn't delirious. Next morning I got going again and came to the clearing of a half-breed named Pettingill. He and his wife fixed me up the best they could. Doctor Taylor came and dressed the wound. As soon as I could make it I rode in to Atoka."

It was a good story. Pettingill and Doctor Taylor probably could back up part of it. Sugg was no fool. He would not spin a yarn that could not stand investigation. It was not a complete alibi, but it was a reasonable explanation. The wound was convincing.

Doctor Taylor corroborated the story, but raised a question. There were powder marks, showing that the pistol had been fired from a very close distance. But if Bob Lee had been standing so near, it was not likely that he would have almost missed his target.

"You mean that Sugg shot himself," Carson put it bluntly.

"I don't know. The position of the wound is odd. If Sugg had no alibi for that 14 or 15 hours, he had to make one. He is game enough to shoot himself."

Carson rolled a smoke slowly, his mind on something else. "I have known young Lee only a few days," he said. "To start with I distrusted him, but the more I see of him the surer I am that he is all right. Different about Sugg. He talks mighty good and looks you straight in the eyes. But somehow I feel he is slippery. On the evidence he is no more likely to be guilty than Lee. But when you have been a law officer a long while you don't go entirely on the evidence. You look at some men and know they are straight. Bob Lee is one. If he's on the level, then Sugg isn't. So there you are."

The doctor was sitting on his porch, trouser legs folded inside dusty boots resting on the rail.

"You'd like to arrest Sugg but you dassent," he said. "He's a kind of important guy, and you can't afford to make a mistake."

"By thunder, I know he's guilty."

"But you are scared you couldn't make a jury know it."

"I'd never have a chance to try unless I got more evidence."

"Catch a couple of Hickorys and turn the screws on them."

"Those fellows always slip away when I'm reaching for them."

"You can arrest Lee," the doctor suggested.

"I don't want to arrest him. That boy isn't holding back a thing. I know all that he does about this mess." Carson arose and looked down at his host. "Sugg did not let out anything to you—make a slip of some kind that didn't tie up with the rest of his story?"

"No, sir."

"He is too doggoned smooth," the marshal replied irritably. He went down the porch steps and across the walk to his horse. When he was in the saddle, he turned to the doctor: "We'll get the gent before we are through."

Dr. Taylor chuckled. "Sugg won't give himself away. He's too smart. Find the weak links and hammer them."

In the days that followed Sugg's visit to the ranch Bob saw little of Willie May. Once when he went to the house to ask her father about moving the beef stock from the west pasture she came out to the porch where he and Broderick were talking, but retreated at once into the hall. He never heard her laugh or the sound of the piano. She was troubled. He guessed the reason from something "J. A." had said. Loyal though she was, it was impossible for her to kill the fear that her lover was guilty.

She went on long lonely rides, which worried Bob. He was not sure it was safe. One of the ranch riders had seen two horsemen go up a draw into the hills back of the JAB spread. He had not been near enough to recognize them. The Hickorys were hiding somewhere. They might be in the rim rock country.

Bob spoke of this to the boss. Broderick did not think it likely, but he repeated young Lee's warning to his daughter. That was a mistake.

"It's very kind of him to be so interested in my safety," she said tartly. "I suppose it's just his habit of always interfering in other people's business."

"Now honey, Bob means well," the cattleman reproved. You're unfair."

"I know he is your great favorite who can't do anything wrong," she retorted. "But he doesn't have to be mine."

Broderick dropped the subject. She was unhappy, her peace disturbed by growing doubts of the man with whom she had been in love. He saw that she felt bitter toward the world.

But in regard to her rides the stockman gave a blunt order. "Make 'em short say as far as the mail box, or take one of our boys along with you. I'm ordering you to do this. It hasn't anything to do with Bob."

"You never thought of it 'till he prompted you," she said. "He wants to run everything. I'll show him he can't boss me even if he can you."

Mr. Broderick lost patience and stormed: "You do as I tell you."

"Even if I met Lee's outlaw friends, they wouldn't harm me. And I won't see any of them because he says they are in the rim rock 50 miles from here," she returned.

"Bob Lee hasn't outlaw friends. The Hickorys have tried repeatedly to rub him out."

"You're always talking about the Hickorys, as if they were the only train robbers in this territory. Didn't you ever hear of the Daltons and the Doolin gang? They weren't all killed. Some of them may be up to their old tricks. Your man Lee could be pointing posses at the Hickorys as a herring to draw attention from the right trail."

The rancher remained silent. What was the use of replying to that line of argument? His daughter was headstrong which made situations like this very difficult at times. He did not want to make it worse. Recent happenings had upset her; she would learn the truth in time.

ACTS FAST AND SAVES 21 LIVES

FORT SMITH, Ark.—(U.P.)—The courageous action and quick thinking of Sgt. Roy E. Jones of the 59th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, Camp Chafee, saved his life and the lives of 20 soldiers.

Sergeant Jones' gun crew was firing a shell which bursts in the air by means of a time fuse. The shell is not supposed to ignite until after it has left the cannon, but one defective shell, set for 15 seconds by a member of the crew, ignited immediately.

When he saw what had happened Sergeant Jones jerked the shell out of the hands of the soldier, loaded it into the cannon in record time and ordered his cannoneer to fire. The shell exploded harmlessly over their heads, 1,000 feet in the air.

THIRD WAR LOAN DRIVE
TREASURY DEPARTMENT
WASHINGTON, D. C.

/COPY/

FELLOW AMERICANS --

THE GREATEST WAR BOND DRIVE IN HISTORY IS UNDERWAY. AMERICA'S GOAL IS 15 BILLION DOLLARS. THE PURPOSE OF THIS DRIVE IS TO "BACK THE ATTACK," TO SUPPORT THE INVASION THAT WILL CRUSH HITLER AND HIS GANG.

I HAVE SEEN A SMALL PART OF THE PREPARATIONS FOR THIS INVASION. I'VE SEEN AND TALKED TO THOUSANDS OF AMERICAN BOYS -- YOUR SONS, YOUR HUSBANDS, YOUR LOVED ONES.

IT IS FOR THEM -- FOR THEIR INVASION -- THAT YOU ARE BEING ASKED TO PUT EVERYTHING YOU'VE GOT BEHIND THE THIRD WAR LOAN. I KNOW THAT YOU WILL NOT LET THESE BOYS DOWN. BUY MORE BONDS. BACK THE ATTACK.

BOB HOPE

Rita Hayworth says:

"WAR BONDS ARE YOUR FIGHTING WEAPONS!"

"We can't all fight, but we can all have weapons. This war will be won or lost by all of us, not just by our men in service. So let's all fight as hard with our dollars as our boys are fighting with their lives. We can't do it by flag-waving, by slogans or by cheers. We can do it by buying more Bonds. Back the Attack!"

Rita Hayworth

P. S. Miss Hayworth, Columbia Pictures star, is a hard working member of the Naval Aid Auxiliary.

Dorothy Lamour says:

"WAR BONDS MEAN A SAFE RETURN FOR OUR LOVED ONES!"

"Today, we have the opportunity to help bring our boys back to the homes they are fighting for. Our brothers, husbands and sons don't question how much their lives are worth. They just go. I, for one, want to be able to look my husband in the eye when he comes home with the feeling that I did all I could. How about you? Back the Attack!"

P. S. Miss Lamour, Paramount star, is one of the leading War Bond salesmen in America. Dorothy Lamour

Carole Landis says:

"WAR BONDS BACK OUR FIGHTING MEN!"

"Now, more than ever before, our fighting men—poised for all-out invasion—need your support. Their courage is not enough. Only the Bonds—the extra Bonds—we buy can make all the weapons they need for victory. I make this appeal to you as a woman with a man over there. Join us in buying all the Bonds you can possibly afford during the Third War Loan. Back the Attack!"

P. S. Miss Landis, 20th Century-Fox star, entertained troops in Africa during the Tunisian campaign. Carole Landis

HOW YOU CAN BACK THE ATTACK!

1 Buy at least one extra $100 Bond this month.

2 Don't stop at 10%. If you can put more of your income in Bonds, do it now.

3 Buy things only as you need them. Put the money you would have spent into more Bonds.

The next meeting, Sept. 27, will be a combined business and social meeting with Mrs. Routsong. Mrs. Rogers and Miss Margaret Evans as hostesses.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Ronald obediently choked back a question at my father's dictum, while Dicky and Noel settled into more comfortable positions in their chairs. I noticed that Dicky still held in his hands the piece of flimsy paper with the drawing of a key upon it, which Crump, the waiter, said he had picked up where the disguised woman had been standing when he helped her on with her coat.

"Before we begin, father," I said deferentially, "I am wondering if that drawing of a key would mean anything to Mary."

Imperturbably my father held out his hand for the paper. Dicky gave it to him, and my father held it out to Mary.

'There's but one way to find that out," he said.

Mary had laid her original translation and her copies, with the little black code book, on the table when my father had put us into our chairs, and she took but one quick glance at the drawing before snatching the code book up and turning to a page almost at the back of the book.

"Here it is!" she exclaimed, handing the code book first to me.

I looked at it and passed it to my father, who sent it on to Dicky, Noel and Ronald. The code book page held a similar drawing of a lock and a key, and in each end of the key was the letter "M," so cunningly drawn in that it took sharp scrutiny to find them.

"I remember so well when she did that," Mary said. "She had trouble managing it alone, but she wouldn't let me help her. She said that if she were really on a pirate ship, she wouldn't have anybody to help her make a copy of a lock and a key. So she took infinite pains, first fitting paper over the lock till she could pencil the outline of the edges, then cutting another paper to fit, and marking the lines of the lock upon it. The key was simpler, of course, and the M, in each end stands for our common initial."

"Then you have no doubt that this drawing is an accurate one of some lock in her prison, and the key to it."

My father's voice was sharp, urgent, as he put the question, and Mary's reply to it was prompt.

"I am sure of it," she said, and my father held out his hand to Ronald for the drawing, then scrutinized it carefully.

"This is not an outside lock," he said positively at last, "and of course she never would have the opportunity to make a drawing of one, anyway. So this must be the lock of her own room, and the fact that she was able to outline it, proves that she is not under as rigid espionage as she formerly was."

"That is indicated by one of the code messages she sent," Mary said quietly.

"Then," he said decisively, "let us hear the messages, all of them, as soon as possible."

Mary sent an appealing glance to me, but I made a decisive negative sign, and she thereupon recited the code messages she had traced with the words "silver cross," "gold bracelet," "opal ring" and "amber necklace my grandmother gave me" for which Marion in her letter had asked Mary to care.

I think it was the hardest task Ronald ever had to sit still and say nothing while those desperately appealing messages from his lost sweetheart were being recited. But the memory of my father's admonition, and his fear that impetuosity on his part might bar him from participating in Marion's rescue, kept him as silent as the rest of us while Mary's golden voice heightened the drama of the messages she was reading to us.

The silence continued for a full second after she finished.

Then my father put his finger tips together and spoke with slow deliberation.

"We have these points to go on. I think we are justified in assuming them from what we have heard from the man, Crump, and from this code revelation.

Five Points.

"First, Marion is in some apartment or house somewhere near that restaurant.

"Second, deducing this from the key, because she has been able to make them believe she is willing to work with them, they have relaxed their espionage on her a little, not very much.

"Third: Her captors are getting uneasy and fear our getting closer to them. She is afraid they will kill her if the chase closes in.

"Fourth: She wishes us to be somewhere near her, to proceed cautiously, and to watch for her signals. That means she wishes someone to be in or near that restaurant almost constantly.

"Fifth: She acknowledges her mistake in judgment. That relieves my greatest fear, that she would hinder our attempts to rescue her through her mistaken altruism in shielding someone."

Ronald could restrain himself no longer. Lurching forward in his seat, he spoke hoarsely.

"Shielding someone?" he repeated "Do you mean she's shielding Carolyn?"

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Sept. 15.

There may be a sudden reversal of affairs on this day, with the energies and faculties keyed to very decisive accomplishment, spurred by brilliant ideas and highly constructive enterprise, which may assure the substantial support of those in influential positions, both in finance and prestige. It should be a time for inaugurating new projects of major importance with might and main. It may be a time to strike while the iron is hot, with aggressive attack even though objectives are novel, revolutionary or spectacular. It is likely results will be decisive and make place for ingenuity in the public eye Be circumspect, however, in affiliations, and wary with writings

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the sudden precipitation of important events with surprising openings for putting over, with vim and enthusiasm, projects of major significance, especially in connection with community, group or public interest. Those in high places may be ready with capital and friendly aid to promote new, ingenious, or out-of-the-ordinary inventions, business projects or other timely programs or propositions. Seek cooperation with confidence and aggressive initiative, but be cautious in signing all writings. It would be desirable to be discreet in all purely private or social affiliations

A child born on this day may be inventive, original, ingenious and have some exceptional ideas or talents to attract public recognition and the solid support of those in high places.

KNOX REVEALS KURILE RAID COST HEAVY

Says Enemy May Have Got 4 Planes, 6 Others Are Still Missing.

peal for greater airplane production.

Returning frm a tour of Pacific war theaters, Patterson said: "It's an air war out there. The paramount need in those theaters is for more planes."

The navy confirmed last night that American heavy and medium bombers had struck again at Paramushiru and reported hits on five enemy ships, destruction of at least 10 challenging enemy fighter planes, and the apparent loss of 10 American bombers. The Japanese said 18 American bombers participated.

The attack occurred on Monday (Paramushiru time), the communique said, "in spite of spirited enemy opposition in the form of heavy anti-aircraft fire and fighter interception."

Upwards of 25 enemy fighters attacked the raiders in a running engagement lasting 50 minutes. The American bombers shot down 10 enemy fighters and probably three more, but four American bombers were known to have been shot down and six others failed to return.

American losses were the heaviest ever suffered on a raid on Paramushiru. No losses were mentioned in the July 10 and July 19 raids and only two planes were reported lost on the third raid Aug. 12.

Patterson, at his first press conference since his return, said that at the rate planes are flowing into the Pacific Allied forces there will be able to maintain the initiative. But he said he felt they should have more planes.

"The requirement for airplanes in the Pacific along with that from Europe indicates the need for full airplane production in this country to the limit of our capacity," he said. "This doesn't mean that we don't have air superiority. But the effectiveness of air strength is so great we can't afford to spare any effort."

Japs Battle On Retreat to Lae

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—(AP)—Fleeing Japanese, giving up Salamaua, fought a rear guard action against swift moving Australians today on ridges northwest of that New Guinea air base as they strove to keep open a single jungle trail of retreat toward doomed Lae.

But the Salamaua Japanese, who abandoned valuable war equipment in their flight Sunday from the town they had held since January, 1942, can only succeed in postponing their fate briefly.

American and Australian forces are clamping a vise on Lae, 18 miles above Salamaua, while Liberators and Flying Fortresses are blowing up gun batteries there. Fall of Lae would give the Allies virtually complete control of Huon gulf.

In announcing today the capture of Salamaua, whose airdrome and harbor are only 150 miles southwest across Dampier strait from Japanese-held New Britain, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique described the enemy as remnants of "disintegrating troops."

GETS PAROLE

Man Who Shot Farmer Being Freed After 4 Years.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The state pardon and parole commission today granted a parole, effective Dec. 1, to Joseph Battista, convicted of shooting to kill Robert Fenwick, Geauga county farmer, Nov. 11, 1939, while hunting on the Fenwick farm.

Battista, now at London prison farm, and three others were hunting on the Fenwick farm without permission when ordered off. The three left, but Battista fired at Fenwick. The shot struck Fenwick's son, also Robert Fenwick, in the left hip. He was sentenced to from one to 29 years in Ohio penitentiary.

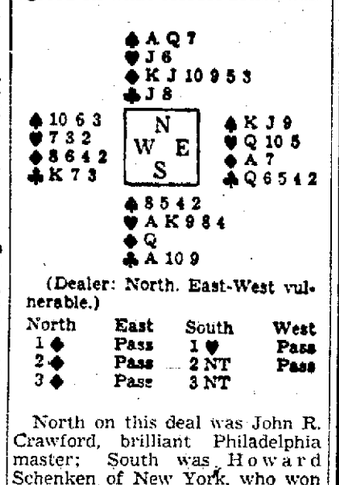
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T LET IT DOWN YOU

When your side fails to make a contract which it bid by sound methods, don't let it down you or make you timid the next time a like situation is presented. Average players could learn a very useful lesson if they could sit in on some of the world's greatest experts when they got set on a constructively bid contract. They would find the stars treating it as "all in the game" and not having a fruitless post-mortem about what might have been, when they were agreed on what correct action was.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

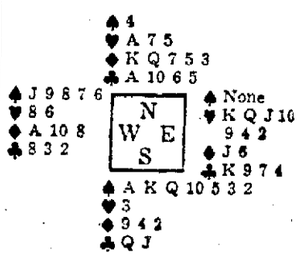
North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♦	Pase	3 NT

North on this deal was John R. Crawford, brilliant Philadelphia master; South was Howard Schenken of New York, who won practically every national championship, including the Masters' Pairs, in which this deal arose. West was Lee Hazen, who has won many championships including the Masters' individual, and East was Richard L. Frey, one of the most consistent winners of national events since the game began.

Mr. Hazen made the clearly marked correct lead of the spade 3. Doing all he could to protect the spade entry to the dummy to help score the diamonds, Mr. Schenken put on the 7, and the J won. Mr. Frey returned the club 4, the 10 being taken by the K, and the spade 6 to the Q was taken by the K. Now the spade 9 knocked out the A from dummy.

In the lead at last, Mr. Schenken made a desperate try for game by leading the heart J. The Q went on, the A scored, and now the diamond Q was led, overtaken by the K. Mr. Frey, of course, holding up the A, as South might have had a doubleton. Now the club J was covered by the Q and A, the spade 8 scored and the heart K. The heart 9 was then led in the hope that the holder of the 10 did not have a diamond, but Mr. Frey had the A and set the contract with it. Then he had to return a club to the good 10 and heart 8, so that the set was only one trick. Everybody concerned had done the best possible with his cards, except that a finesse of the heart 9 would have made the contract if it had been tried after East held up the diamond A. But nobody commented on it.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

How should South play to make 4-Spades on this deal after West leads the heart 8?

DEVELOPS NEW USES FOR WOOD

PORTLAND, Ore.—(U.P.)—Plaster, plastics, cork and charcoal are being developed experimentally from waste wood at the Oregon State college products laboratory.

Prof. Paul Dunn, dean of the school of forestry, has exhibited samples of the new products, which include a sawdust plaster that substitutes for gypsum plaster; plastics suitable for table tops, drain boards and wall board, and low-cost cork 85 per cent as resilient as Spanish cork, good especially for linoleum.

The laboratory also has produced a compressed laminated wood suitable for airplane construction, and charcoal that costs $9 a ton.

Dunn, who said one post-war problem is to make more use of each tree cut, stated that the Pacific Northwest has about one-half of the nation's forest resources, but that under war pressure it is being cut twice as fast as it can be grown.

A birthday cake that started a thousand miles away!

BOBBY'S just six today, so he can hardly be expected to know such an interesting fact about his birthday cake!

But some day he'll realize that the flour, the chocolate, the sugar, and other ingredients came from widely separated sections of America. Some day, too, he'll discover an appreciation of his railroad which made it possible for these ingredients of his cake to be brought almost to his very table.

That birthday cake represents a way of life to Bobby—the American way of life we hope he'll always enjoy. Right now, along with all American Industry, the sixty thousand workers of the B&O are helping fight for that way of life. While it is our most important task, we're keeping our eyes, nevertheless, on the post-war days to come—when serving your community again will be the top job on our list.

Just what kind of a team are these Marion Harding Presidents who open Mansfield's grid campaign next Saturday night at Marion?

Winners of the North Central Ohio league championship the past few seasons, the Presidents stirred up considerable agitation in Marion last year for "big time" football. There was some talk that they would quit the N. C. A. league and go all out on a "big time" schedule.

But Harding wisely decided to stay in the league where their natural rivalries exist, which branching out into big time with its non-league schedule.

Booking of Mansfield on a two-year, home-and-home basis was Marion's first and biggest jump into big-time. Last spring the Presidents had enough experienced players around to make the move look good.

Other non-league teams on the schedule are: Columbus West, Lima South and Findlay.

But summer losses to the service cut down Marion's returning lettermen to four this fall. And Harding fans began to have their doubts about another big season.

Coach Vic Dorris seems to have come up with another championship favorite as far as the N. C. O. league is concerned.

In a practice game last week against the second team, the Presidents chalked up nine touchdowns for a 59-0 victory. They were so busy making touchdowns, they didn't have time to bother with first downs, getting only six of those ball-saving advances.

And according to the Marion Star, the Presidents presented a big, hard-charging, dependable line, and a quartet of fast, versatile backs, who can run, pass, punt and hit the line. What more would a guy want?

Question is: How good was the second team? And the Star admits the second team wasn't much. In fact it finds little hope of finding first string reserves of game caliber among the second stringers. And that's bad. Reserves may be needed.

Following the scrimmage, Coach Dorris ventured the opinion that his regulars would have to improve 50 per cent before they can beat Mansfield. And the Star comments that the reserves will have to improve many times that 50 per cent if Dorris is going to have any capable substitutes

The Marion line, with a pair of 200-pound tackles, averaged 170 pounds, the backfield 157, making a team average of 166. The Tygers will hit the scales slightly over 160.

Milwaukee Nears Association Title

(By Associated Press)

Postponement or cancellation of all last night's American Association baseball games moved the first-place Milwaukee Brewers another big step nearer the championship.

* * *

With the season ending Sunday, Milwaukee is three games in front of Indianapolis and four ahead of Columbus. The Brewers have seven to play, Indianapolis has eight, and Columbus seven. If the Brewers take four of those contests, the Tribe would have to win all its remaining tilts to grab the flag.

* * *

Milwaukee's remaining games are with sixth place Minneapolis and seventh place Kansas City, while Indianapolis and Columbus clean up their slates against the current fourth and fifth place clubs, Toledo and Louisville.

Toledo and Louisville were the only teams to take the field yesterday, but the game was halted after one inning of play.

Cardinals Approach Clincher

Yanks May Have To Wait Two Weeks Yet.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THERE isn't any mystery about which teams are going to win the major league pennants, but a lot of fans are rushing for pencil and paper to figure out when the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees will get around to clinching their championships.

It may contribute to the calm and orderly processes of arithmetic, therefore, to point out that there will be no clinchings before next week-end.

The Cardinals can settle the senior circuit controversy with any combination of five victories for themselves or five defeats for their immediate pursuers, the Brooklyn Dodgers, while the magic combination for the Yankees is 10, and consequently further removed.

The Cardinals might be able to make short shrift of their pennant problem except that they haven't played since last Saturday and aren't scheduled again until Thursday, when they will embark on a six-game, four-day series with the Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers have single games today and tomorrow with the Boston Braves, will be idle Thursday, and then play a four-game setto with the New York Giants.

Both the Yanks and second place Indians will be reasonably busy this week. As a result it would be possible for New York to put over the clincher Sunday if it were to win all its games in the meantime and Cleveland were to lose continuously. Since this is unlikely, and next Monday and Tuesday are open dates in both leagues, the best guess is that the Yankees will not nail down their pennant until the latter part of next week.

Action in the majors yesterday was confined to Boston, where the Braves completed their suspended game of July 18 with the Brooklyn Dodgers and obtained a 7-6 ten-inning triumph, but lost the regularly scheduled contest 10-3. The suspended game had been halted because of the Massachusetts Sunday curfew with the score tied at 4-4 in the sixth inning.

Boilermakers Appear Vastly Improved Eleven This Fall

By WALTER L. JOHNS
(Central Press Sports Editor)

Probably the best way to start this series on the Western Conference football teams is to protect ourselves with the following:

Any resemblance between 1942 college teams and the 1943 squads are purely coincidental.

Of course, the hodge-podge created by the call to armed service, transfer of students and eligibility of 17-year-old freshmen in short pants isn't that baffling but the mixup probably could be placed on even terms with Einstein's relativity theory. At that, Einstein's theory might emerge in the blue.

Purdue's Boilermakers, trampled on by all clubs but Northwestern last year, appear to be a vastly-improved eleven with 25 Marine V-12 trainees and eight Navy men among the 36 players being considered for regular and substitute work.

Addition of Cecil Isbell, Purdue star in 1936-37-38 and an All-American back, to the coaching staff headed by Elmer Burnham, indicates a new accent on passing. Isbell, for five years the star of the Green Bay Packers, developed the passing art to a high degree of finesse with the pro team.

Fifteen former Illinois and Missouri players are on the Purdue squad this year. Included in this group are Tony Butkovich, regular Illini back last season; Alex Agase, the scrappy all-American Illini guard, and Lou DeFilippo, former Fordham center.

The Boilermaker line stacks up as one of the finest in the conference.

From tackle to tackle the forward wall should make opposing clubs shudder. DeFilippo, a Navy contribution, probably will be the center with Joe Morrow, Missouri letterman; Walter Poremba, Case freshman star in '42, and Bill Newell, Purdue letterman, backing him up.

At the guards, Agase and Dick Barwegen, six-foot, 200-pound Chicago youth who won a major letter last season, are the No. 1 selections with four Marines, Jack Butt of Illinois, Danahl Lehmkuhl of Iowa, Joe Hersch of Franklin and Marshall and Olin Lougheed of Ball State among the others who may break in.

Tackle positions may be allotted to Mike Kasap, 240-pound Marine who lettered at Illinois, and John Genis, 210-pounder, also from Illinois. Bob Plevo, a freshman from Bowen High school, Chicago, and a 220-pounder, is being worked at tackle.

At the ends, Coach Burnham has been trying Joe Buscemi, Illinois freshmen; Bill Lodge of Purdue and Frank Bayman, 215-pound, six-foot-three wingman from Illinois. Another end hopeful is Nate Laskin, Purdue boy.

In the backfield, the coaches are alternating two combinations featuring Butkovich and Leo Milla, the latter from Missouri, at full; Jim Darr, Missouri letterman, and Sam Vacanti, Iowa letterman, at quarter; Stan Dubicki, Shurtleff letterman, and Bill Stuard of Purdue at the left halfback spot and several boys at right half.

* * *

Injury of Ed Cycenas, Purdue letterman last year, will keep him out of action for several weeks. His right halfback spot thus is open. Boris Dimancheff, transfer student from Butler, may get that spot.

Club League Opens Season

Hilborn Rolls Three Games of 172 Pins.

Club bowling league opened its season last night at Colony alleys with Moore setting the pace on a 598 series and a 246 game.

Art Hilborn chalked up that bowling rarity, a string of identical games, with 172-172-172—516.

Only four 200 games were marked up for the opener.

DAYTON TEAM OUT OF AMATEUR TOURNEY

YOUNGSTOWN — (INS) — The Dayton Acmes were out of the running today after being defeated by Cleveland Bartunek Clothes nine, who romped them to a 11 to 2 in the national sandlot tournament game yesterday.

The third straight victory for the Cleveland nine was led by Bud Erne who held Dayton to seven hits.

Tygers Lose Guy And Haas

Bad Luck Comes In Large Order Monday.

Mansfield high's Tygers had a lot of luck yesterday, and all of it was bad.

Jack Guy, veteran tackle and blocking back, received his orders to report to the Marines next week. But he'll be here long enough to play in the opengame at Marion Saturday night.

And Gene Haas, 175-pound tackle from Ironton who moved here this summer, got homesick and returned to Ironton. He failed to show up for practice yesterday, and a check-up revealed his departure.

Etzel or Meeting will replace Haas at tackle, Coach Paul Snyder announced, with probably both of them seeing action against Marion.

Gromek Recalled By Cleveland Indians

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— Cleveland's two 15-game pitchers, Jim Bagby and Lefty Al Smith, are today's Indian pitching nominees in a twilight doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns.

The bargain bill was scheduled after a weather-postponement of the series opener yesterday.

Another game Wednesday ends the series, and the Tribe heads homeward to open the final stand before the home fans Friday night, against Detroit.

Ed Klieman, bespectacled sinker ball specialist who won 23 games for the Baltimore Orioles before the International League team's schedule ended Sunday, will join the Redskins Friday.

Steve Gromek also has been recalled from the Maryland club and will don the Tribal uniform Friday.

PLAYER SOLD

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— The Chicago Cardinals today announced purchase of Guard Louis Marotti from the New York Giants.

Bachman Named as Camp Grant Coach

And as Usual His First Game Will Be Against Michigan

By DAVE HOFF

CHICAGO—(AP)—For 10 years Charley Bachman has been going through the annual fall torment of getting his Michigan State team ready for its opener against its old Nemesis, Michigan. Then Michigan State dropped football, and "Bach" settled back for a peaceful autumn.

But today the veteran, successful mentor is right back at the old stand, getting his newly-acquired Camp Grant football team ready—for Michigan, of course. The sad thing to Charley this time is that he has less than a week to do it.

"None of these boys ever played under me," he said after watching the squad perform following yesterday's announcement of his appointment as civilian coach of the soldiers. "As a matter of fact, I've never seen a one of them play football."

Before Bachman's appointment was announced at the army post, and after Camp Grant's unimpressive showing last Saturday against a weak Illinois team, Michigan was regarded as a heavy favorite to beat the Warriors next Saturday.

The surprise announcement about Bachman has created new interest in the Michigan-Camp Grant game Saturday, although it's only one of three fairly good battles in store in this area that day.

The others are Marquette at Wisconsin and Purdue at Great Lakes. In addition Indiana is opening its season at home with Miami U. and Illinois is host to the 1943 Iowa Seahawks, who are making their bow.

In other Big Ten area camps: Veteran Len Calligaro, Wisconsin's only letterman, has been named the Badgers' captain for the Marquette opener. . . . Coach Paul Brown, who scouted Great Lakes against Fort Riley Sunday, told his Ohio State Buckeyes how hard they'll have to work for their two service team opponents. . . . Don Faurot of Iowa Pre-Flight and Bo McMillin at Indiana gave their squads new plays. . . . Assistant Coach Joe Dienhart of Purdue, another to see Great Lakes' opener, told the Boilermakers: "Great Lakes has a rugged line working in front of a dangerous backfield."

Slip Madigan has moved Bill Barbour from end to tackle in a shuffle of Iowa players. . . . Northwestern is in for virtually daily scrimmage because Coach Lynn Waldorf says "our first scrimmage last Saturday showed we are much farther behind than usually at this stage." . . . Some of Illinois' freshmen who missed Saturday's opener because of faulty entrance credits are back with the squad but one, Chet Sainai, promptly got hurt in a heavy scrimmage.

Brollier Sets C-Loop Pace

Jacobson Turns In High Opening Game.

R. Brollier's 573 series took top honors in the Commercial "C" bowling league as it opened its season last night at Colony alleys.

Jacobson's 224 was high game.

FDR CRITICIZES CONGRESS FOR RIDER OUSTER

President Scolds Legislators For Abolishing Jobs of 3 Under Fire From Dies.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt today strongly criticized congress for passing legislation which abolished the jobs of three government employes who had been accused by the Dies committee of having subversive sympathies.

In a special message to congress the chief executive declared that legislative action which deprived the three employes of their salaries was "not only unwise and discriminatory, but unconstitutional."

Those dismissed by congressional action were William E. Dodd, jr., and Goodwin Watson, employes of the federal communication commission, and Robert Morse Lovett, secretary of the Virgin Island government.

Congress cut them from the payroll in a rider to an urgent deficiency bill which appropriated money for various government agencies.

In order to permit the continuance of vital government agencies during the congressional recess, the president had to sign the measure. At that time, Mr. Roosevelt assailed the rider as unconstitutional and pointed out that he was signing it under protest only in order that essential activities of government could be carried on.

In his special message today, the president said:

"If it had been possible to veto the objectionable rider, which has been attached to this urgent deficiency appropriation act, but which has no relevancy to it, without delaying essential war appropriations, I should unhesitatingly have done so.

"This rider prohibited any government department or agency from employing at any time in the future, after Nov. 15, three named individuals who are now employed by different government agencies, unless they are appointed to office by the president and confirmed by the senate prior to that date.

"There is no suggestion that the three named individuals have not loyally and confidently performed the duties for which they have been employed. They are sought to be disqualified for federal employment because of political opinions attributed to them."

The president then pointed out that the senate had rejected the rider once and had agreed to it only after house conferees had refused to agree to any bill which did not contain the rider aimed at removal of the three officials.

"The senate yielded, as I have been forced to yield, to avoid delaying our conduct of the war," the president stated.

"But I cannot so yield without placing on record my view that this provision is not only unwise and discriminatory, but unconstitutional.

"It is directed at named individuals and not at specified statutory offices. No judicial trials have been held. No impeachment proceedings have been instituted. This rider is an unwarranted encroachment upon the authority of both the executive and judicial branches under our constitution. It is not, in my judgment, binding upon them."

Allies Hold 80 Italian Warships, Others Giving Up

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA —(U.P.)— Eighty Italian warships now are in Allied hands and various Italian merchant vessels are steaming toward Allied ports, it was revealed today.

A revised estimate of the warships which have escaped from the Germans and surrendered to the Allies includes five battleships, one seaplane carrier, eight cruisers, 19 submarines, 27 destroyers, 12 torpedo boats, six Corvettes, one auxiliary cruiser and one hospital ship.

(The Japanese Domei news agency reported that two Italian ships had been scuttled at Shanghai and that 17 others had been damaged by their crews in an effort to keep them from being used by the Japanese. The Tokyo transmission announced, however, that all Italian ships in Japanese-controlled waters had been seized.)

SEE APPLICANTS FOR CITY JOBS

Civil Service Commissioners To Interview Persons For 16 Positions.

Applicants for 16 civil service jobs in Mansfield will be interviewed between 7 and 9 p. m. today at the city building in preparation for examinations for the jobs on Sept. 29.

City posts, including fire chief, one fireman, five policemen, chief operator at the Mansfield sewage plant, and an electrician and maintenance man in the sewer department, will be open for competitive examination.

Also open are the custodians' jobs at Senior high school and one elementary building and two assistant janitors' posts.

The fire chief's examination is open only to captains in the department who have had more than one year of experience as captain. Acting Chief L. R. Zimmerman and Capt. Frank Stahl at the No. 4 station have indicated they will take the examination.

The civil service commission will distribute application blanks tonight during the interviewing period at the city building.

MAN, 88, HURT

Mansfielder Injured When Struck By Auto.

Archibald Purdy, 88, of 84 Waring avenue, suffered severe head contusions and shock when he was hit by a truck driven by Donald E. Fowler of Ashland, yesterday at 5 p. m.

Purdy was crossing Waring avenue at Franklin avenue when the car struck him. The driver told police he had been watching another car and had not noticed the man until it was too late to avoid hitting him.

The injured man was taken to General hospital where his condition today was reported as fair.

STILL WAITING ON EQUIPMENT

Chief Marking Time After 5 Weeks Expires Since Bids on Radio Devices.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates is still waiting for his new radio equipment.

Even the Chicago firm which was supposed to have received the contract last week is wondering whether it's going to get the order, after all.

Bates said today he had received a telegram from the Galvin Manufacturing company in Chicago asking about the contract their salesman was to have received several days ago. Investigating, Bates said he learned from Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff that the order had not been placed and the matter was in the hands of City Engineer W. C. Statler who was going over the plans and specifications.

Bids from two firms on the radio equipment were opened five weeks ago today. For a month the contract letting was undecided, Mayor W. J. Locke holding out for the Chicago firm, the low bidder, although Bates contended that it had not met the specifications.

Wolff announced last week that he and the mayor, comprising the city board of control, had finally decided to award the contract to the Chicago company which bid $239 under a New York manufacturer.

Bates said he has "washed his hands" of the matter. All he wants now, he said, is some new radio equipment as soon as he can get it.

Route 13 Detour Takes Mayor To Columbus Again

Mayor W. J. Locke went to Columbus today to confer with state highway department officials on a detour route for State Route 13 at the airport and to check with the manufacturer on the delivery of a new aerial ladder truck for the fire department.

The mayor said he planned to keep the Route 13 matter before the highway department until some definite action is taken to provide a detour that will not hinder construction work on the airport expansion project.

He said the Olivesburg road is the logical detour route for the highway until federal funds can be obtained to supplement state money to re-locate the highway.

If the airport work starts early in January as scheduled, it may be possible to keep the present Route 13 open until next summer, although most traffic would be detoured around the site, the mayor said.

Delivery of the city's new fire truck is scheduled for tomorrow, but city officials have heard nothing recently from the manufacturer in Columbus to indicate whether it will be here on time. The truck will replace the big ladder truck which has been in use for a number of years.

WINS LENIENCY

Boy, 17, Freed Of Jail Term On Driving Charge.

A 17-year-old boy who pleaded guily to charges of operating an automobile without a license and side-swiping two parked cars was sentenced yesterday in juvenile court.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, acting in the absence of Judge Stuart H. Cramer, sentenced the youth to 60 days in the county jail and a $100 fine. The jail sentence and $75 of the fine were suspended.

GOBLE RELATIVE DIES

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Mrs. Etta E. Holmes, 76, mother-in-law of Col. Chester W. Goble, state draft director, died at her home today after a six months illness. She was a native of Columbus.

VICTORY GARDEN OUTPUT HIGH

ITHACA, N. Y.—(U.P.)—For the first time since the first World war, home gardeners, in their 200,000 acres of backyard and community Victory gardens, are producing as much or more food than commercial vegetable growers in New York state.

The vegetable-crops department of the State College of Agriculture says these home garden foods mean that the nation will be better fed than it could be otherwise, and that commercial crops of vegetables can continue to go to America's fighting forces and allies.

As good land produces 10 tons or more of vegetables to the acre, the department predicts the Empire State's Victory Garden tonnage will probably equal the weight of food consumed by 2,000,000 soldiers in a year.

CALLS FOR HELP

Red Cross In Need of 30 More Blood Donors.

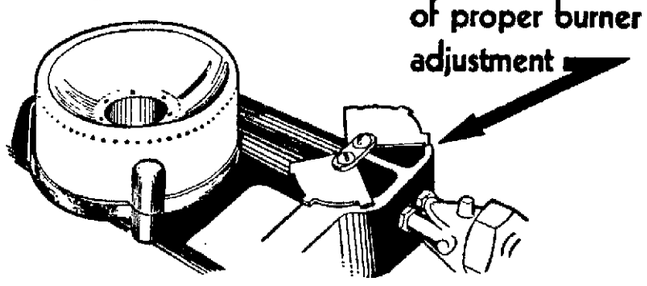
Red Cross blood donor workers today sent out a plea for 30 more persons to donate blood tomorrow between the hours of 10:45 and 2:45 when the mobile donor unit will be at the Gardner Garage on Park avenue west.

Mrs. Ephraim Brown, chairman of the donor registration, said there had been an unprecedented number of cancellations for this visit of the unit probably due to the prevalence of colds. She urged persons interested in donating blood to contact the Red Cross office.

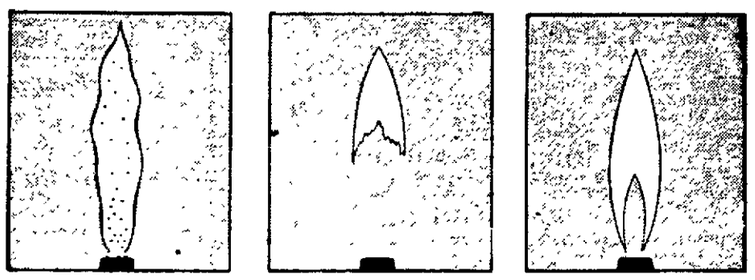
Inmates of the Ohio State Reformatory yesterday gave 156 pints of blood when the unit stopped there for the day.

Save, Serve and Conserve—

by the simple process of proper burner adjustment



Correct adjustment of the burners on your gas appliances produces a clean flame with maximum heat on a minimum flow of gas. This efficiency in the use of the fuel not only saves you money, but also saves gas for the increased need of the war industries. In these times it is both thrifty and patriotic to avoid wasting gas. Dust or other dirt sucked into the mixer with the air will put a burner out of adjustment if allowed to accumulate. If an even blue flame is not secured after cleaning the complete burner assembly, good adjustment can be secured by following the simple instructions below.



NOT ENOUGH AIR
A lazy flame or one showing tinges of yellow denotes too much gas. Open the shutter on the mixer slightly.

TOO MUCH AIR
A blue flame dancing above and off the burners denotes too much air. Close the shutter on the mixer slightly.

CORRECT FLAME
A clear blue flame seated on the burner, of definite shape and showing a lighter inner cone denotes proper mixture of gas and air.

With a little practice, most customers will find that they can make these simple adjustments themselves. A screwdriver is the only tool needed to loosen and tighten the set screw on the mixer. If difficulty is encountered, call your plumber or The Gas Company.

MEAT DEALER GIVEN WARNING

Health Commissioner Orders Firm To Clean Up Place For Slaughtering.

Another Mansfield meat dealer today was ordered by the county health department to clean up the property surrounding his slaughter house near the city or face court action.

Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, mailed the warning after a complaint about unsanitary conditions at the slaughter house was turned in to the sheriff's office.

Dr. Wild said a health department investigator found that the butcher had been permitting offal to accumulate near the slaughter house, causing the complaint.

Health department regulations permit the feeding of offal to hogs and poultry, but it must not be permitted to remain in the open until it decomposes, Wr. Wild said.

A second Mansfield meat dealer, warned two weeks ago about the inadequacy of the sewage disposal system at his slaughter house, received a final warning today from the health department after it was learned that he had not corrected the condition, the health commissioner said.

MADE CHAIRMAN

VanDerau Elected To Head Post-War Planning.

Lot Number One Hundred Forty-four (No. 144), and five (5) feet off the west side of Lot Number One Hundred Forty-five (No. 145) of the consecutive lot numbers in the City of Mansfield, Ohio, the same facing on Park Avenue West in said City and having a depth of one hundred eighty (180) feet, —the said property being numbered by street number as No. 45 Park Avenue West, Mansfield, Ohio.

Also Lots numbered Twenty-five Hundred Forty-seven (No. 2547) and Twenty-five Hundred Fifty (No. 2550) of the consecutive numbers of lots in the said City of Mansfield, Ohio, the first numbered lot facing on West Fourth Street, having a frontage of ninety (90) feet, and extending back to Dickson Avenue of said City to a depth of One Hundred Eighty (180) feet and is known as No. 67 West Fourth Street in said City; the second numbered lot facing on Dickson Avenue having a frontage of Forty-three (43) feet, thereon, and extending north to a depth of sixty (60) feet, and is known as No. 75 West Dickson Avenue in said City.

The prayer of the Petition asks for authority to mortgage the said real estate to secure the payment of a loan of $33,500.00 for the purpose of refunding the existing mortgage on its real estate. The said cause will be for hearing on or after the 6th day of October, 1943.
Jas. W. Galbraith,
Attorney for the said Y.M.C.A.
Petitioner.

If you ever need $25, $50, $100 or more quickly and simply, come to Household Finance. If you have a job so that you can repay in small monthly payments, you are welcome to apply for any amount up to $1000. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Example: A $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly installments of $9.24 each costs $5.44—if repaid in one month the cost is only $1.50. No endorsers or guarantors are ever needed. We never make inquiries of friends or relatives.

SEE? TIN CANS MIXED WITH GARBAGE! LOST! WASTED! YOU KNOW WHAT TH' TIN AND STEEL IN EVEN ONE SALVAGED CAN MEANS TO OUR COUNTRY! SOMEBODY SLIPPED, EH?
LOOK AT THAT JUNK PILE! ENOUGH STUFF TO BUILD A TANK! YOU WERE BORN HERE! BUT I HAD TO FIND THIS STUFF! WHY?
GUESS WE'RE SO USED TO SEEIN' STUFF AROUND THAT WE SORTA DIDN'T NOTICE—
SURE! BUT WAKE UP NOW! WHERE ARE TH' FATS FOR EXPLOSIVES, EH? AND ANOTHER THING——

BLONDIE— Blackout In Camp Bumstead. By Chic Young

BLONDIE, WHAT HAPPENED TO THE LIGHTS?
THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WITH MY ELECTRIC IRON— WHEN I CONNECTED IT, IT BLEW OUT THE FUSE!
LUCKY WE HAD AN EXTRA FUSE HANDY
I SEE WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH YOUR IRON— I CAN FIX IT IN A JIFFY
IS MY IRON ALL RIGHT? CAN I USE IT NOW, DAGWOOD?
YES, I REPAIRED IT, GOOD AS NEW— GO AHEAD, PLUG IT IN

IRREGULARITY RULES MARKET PRICE CHANGES

Increase In Christmas Gift Buying For Service Men Seen This Fall.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Mild price irregularity prevailed in today's early stock market transactions.

Up fractionally at a quiet opening were N. Y. Central, American Can, General Motors, Pennsylvania, North American and American Smelting. Declines were posted for Douglas Aircraft, Greyhound, Radio Corp., Southern Railway and Kennecott.

On the side of merchandising issues were predictions that men and women in the armed services overseas would receive 20 per cent more Christmas gifts this year than in 1942. The expected increase was attributed to the fact that parents and relatives are better informed now as to the whereabouts of those serving outside the continental limits of the United States.

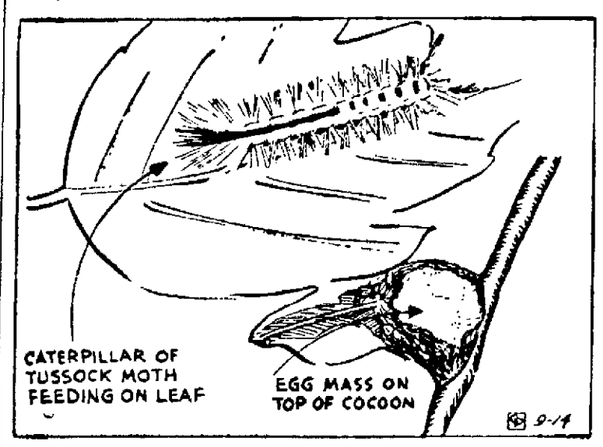
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Guard Victory Garden Fruit Trees Against Tussock Moth.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association.

BE ALERT this winter to guard Victory garden fruit trees by spying out the egg masses of the tussock moth and destroying them, thus saving the trees from the attacks of this pest next spring. Keep an eye on shade trees, too, for the eggs of the tussock moth.

The caterpillars of the white-marked tussock moth which hatch after passing the winter in the egg state, feed on the surface of the leaves, skeletonizing them. One of these caterpillars is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. These caterpillars attack apple, pear, quince, plum and other deciduous fruit trees, and almost all shade trees.

The tussock moth lays eggs in conspicuous masses, nearly an inch long, and 50 to 100 eggs each, attached to the trunk, branches or dead leaves of the tree or nearby objects, usually on top of the grayish cocoon from which the female moth emerged. The eggs, illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, are covered with a mass of white, stiff substance, having the appearance of hardened lather.

Scrape the egg masses off with a stick and burn them or put them in a can of kerosene. Burning the cocoons from the bark with a torch injuries the trees, but the Victory gardener can protect his fruit trees by spraying early in June, when the newly hatched caterpillars are feeding. Use a lead arsenate spray (one pound to 50 gallons of water) as soon as the caterpillars appear in number upon the trees.

DEMANDS VOTE ON DRAFT BAN

Sen. Wheeler Charges Army Wastes Manpower, Points To Canada's Plans.

N. Y., co-author of the Austin-Wadsworth national service bill, said of the Canadian announcement that he could not "see disbanding of armies at this time in the war."

Wheeler's notice he would fight for early action came as a proposal for a moratorium on drafting of fathers until congress at least conducts a new manpower survey, appeared to be gaining strength.

Meanwhile reports increased that President Roosevelt would soon enter the manpower picture by recommending a national labor draft.

May, who has a bill to ban the drafting of all fathers, said he would call a meeting of his committee tomorrow or Thursday to review the manpower question with particular reference to the proposed induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

Meanwhile, indications supported the belief that President Roosevelt is preparing to send a strong message to congress on the manpower question, topped by a recommendation for legislation similar to the Wadsworth-Austin national service bill.

Rep. James W. Wadsworth, R., N. Y., father of the selective service act and co-author of the National service bill, predicted an early forthright declaration by the White House on the labor draft. Wadsworth said he could not escape the conclusion that only "political consequences" have stood in the way of a presidential labor draft recommendation before this time

THEATERS

New Paramount Star.

Paramount has a new star to replace Stirling Hayden! He is big, blond, handsome Sonny Tufts and the studio expects him to become the same overnight sensation as Hayden. Tufts makes his movie debut in Mark Sandrich's "So Proudly We Hail," the Paramount picture about America's fighting women, which is current at the Ohio theater, with Claudette Colbert, Paulette Goddard and Veronica Lake co-starred. Like Hayden, Tufts is well over six feet tall, equally blond and equally good-looking. Like Hayden, Tufts had no acting experience before he arrived in Hollywood, although he entertained the public as a singer in swank clubs and in musical comedy. In "So Proudly We Hail" he appears as Paulette Goddard's romantic interest.

Fonda as Cowpuncher.

"The Ox-Bow Incident," 20th Century-Fox action drama, has the west for its local and, even though the film is far from a horse opr'y, fans will have the first opportunity in over a year to see Henry Fonda in cowpuncher's duds and riding hard. Hank's done much of his recent cinema traveling by car, train and plane, but in the film opening tomorrow at the Madison theater, he looks pretty much at home atop his mount. That may well be because Hank hails from Grand Island, Neb., where he rode his own horse long before he ever saw an auto. Co-feature is "Gals Incorporated."

Lucky Numbers.

Seven-eleven are lucky numbers for William Powell and Myrna Loy. This is their seventh year as the screen's most popular team. The "Shadow of the Thin Man," current at the Ritz theater, is their eleventh picture. That's a new Hollywood record for movie teams. In fact, every number from one to eleven has been ducky for Powell and Miss Loy, who began their long and successful association with Clark Gable in "Manhattan Melodrama." Their pictures read like a parade of hits, "The Great Ziegfeld, "Libeled Lady," "Double Wedding," "Love Crazy," and of course, the "Thin Man" films. "A Stranger in Town," with Frank Morgan, Jean Rogers and Richard Carlson is the companion attraction.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

D. 1, arrested last night on North Main street, for driving without a license, forfeited $16.30 bond by failing to appear today for hearing in municipal court. The car driven by Wallace had been involved in a minor accident in Mansfield, police said.

Check Burklary—Police today were investigating a week-end burglary at the offices of the Ohio Textile company, 147 North Diamond street, were mechanical pencils, a pen and pencil set, and other articles valued at $23 were reported stolen. A window of the building was forced open.

Speeder Cited—Arrested yesterday by state highway patrolmen on U. S. Route 42 northeast of the city, Albert S. Mullen, Parkersburg, W. Va., posted $16.30 bond in municipal court and signed a waiver. Patrolmen said he was driving 60 miles an hour.

Eight Graduated—Eight young people of the Shenandoah community were graduated from the juvenile Grange at a recent meeting at the Shenandoah Grange hall. The graduates were James Neer, Naomi Wolford, Dean Wolford, Marilyn Wolford, Evelyn Hoffman, Dale Wolford, Bruce Winters, and Shirley Winters.

License Suspended—Found guilty in municipal court today of unsafe driving, Adam Blumenshine, 610 Woodville road, was fined $10 and costs and his driver's license was suspended until he pays the damage to a car owned by Ernest Dunn, Loudonville. Blumenshine's car figured in an accident Saturday night with one driven by Dunn.

Install Officers—McVey Post of the American Legion will meet with other county posts Wednesday evening for joint installation ceremonies at the Legion home here. Department Commander Ross Williams will act as installing officer. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p. m. and the auxiliary will serve dinner prior to that at 6:30 p. m.

Money Stolen—Two Mansfield residents today had reported the theft of money from their rooms. Russell McNeely, 96 Raymond avenue, said his wallet containing $52 was stolen from beneath his pillow while he slept Sunday night. He named a 20-year-old youth as a suspect, telling police the boy had been sleeping in his room. Mrs. Pearl Bennett, 58 South Weldon avenue, said $10 was stolen from her room Monday.

the dairy farmer, said Bowles who also reported a drop in living costs and an attempt to cut them further by a new program to whittle food prices.

After battling itself red in the face over food subsidies earlier in the summer, the senate finally recessed in such haste it abandoned the ban it had placed on subsidies.

At that time the controversial items were meat and butter but OPA has gone ahead with them, depressing prices by a subsidy of about 350 million dollars obtained from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Congressional feeling toward OPA may have softened in the meantime for before it departed it gave orders that no man lacking business experience should control price-making policies after Aug. 16.

And Bowles, confidently whipping out his report card, said in a lengthy statement last night:

Only eight of the OPA's price bosses came under the congressional ban and were being replaced; OPA's much-criticized legal department, as such, will be scrapped; a system of tokens will be substituted for food ration stamps, probably early this winter; no matter what the amount of gasoline allowed on "A" cards hereafter there will be no "legal strings attached;" the public will get more OPA information and facts, "the bitter along with the sweet;" and OPA price panels have orders against "snooping and coercion."

ing in many of the local stores, a sales woman recently sold a $500 bond to an electrician who walked into the store originally to buy a sweater.

Shelby drive dealers today reported more than $200,000 has been raised toward their $900,000 quota.

Chairman Brunner said no reports have been made from the villages and the townships though the bond sales through the banks are included in the total.

Yesterday's sales amounted to $331,723.25 with 256 persons subscribing. A total of 1145 Richland countians have now had a part in the war loan drive.

Of the $1,106,542.25 reported today, $335,542.25 represents sales of series E, F, G, and C bonds and $769,000 sales of treasury tax notes.

ALLIES FORCED TO GIVE GROUND NEAR SALERNO

Berlin Says Yanks Driven From Positions; 8th Army Rushes Northward.

army, and overhead increasing numbers of Nazi planes were engaged by hundreds of Allied bombers and fighters.

(There was not the slightest Allied indication of any withdrawal from Salerno as reported by the Germans, who said the withdrawal was continuing this morning, after beginning Monday afternoon. Transocean said it was being made "in complete disorder.")

Meanwhile, arrival of new Italian naval units at Malta swelled the strength of the erstwhile enemy fleet in Allied hands to 77 ships, including five battleships, one seaplane carrier, eight cruisers, 27 destroyers and 19 submarines.

In the fierce struggle near historic Naples, the Allies still had air superiority, but the Germans had closer airfields, permitting them to fly many sorties a day with a small number of planes. The Allied bridgehead is not yet deep enough to support airdromes.

Flying hundreds of sorties, Allied planes including every type from A-36 Invaders to Flying Fortresses attacked Nazi bases and convoys, and 10 enemy planes were destroyed yesterday.

The Allied communique gave no details of the situation at Salerno, saying merely:

"Heavy fighting continues on the Fifth army front. The Germans are counter-attacking desperately and at certain points have regained some of the ground taken by us."

The Eighth army advanced approximately 10 miles up the west coast of Italy to reach Cosenza, 90 miles from Reggio di Calabria and at about the center of the arch of the Italian foot. Cosenza is about 120 airline miles from Salerno.

On the heel of the boot other British forces were expanding their holdings out of Taranto and Brindisi.

One column was at Bari 65 miles north of Brindisi on the Adriatic, and another, cutting diagonally across the heel from Taranto, was at Gioja, about midway between the naval base and Bari.

The American and British troops composing Clark's army who were landed on the coastal plain south of Salerno were fighting their way desperately toward the mountains from which the Germans were pouring down a murderous fire on the invasion beaches.

"The fighting is extremely heavy and it certainly is the bitterest land fighting encountered by an Allied landing force in this war," a military officer said.

The reconstituted Hermann Goering division, the same one which gave the Americans and British so much trouble in northern Tunisia near Medjez El Bab and in Sicily and the 15th and 16th armored divisions, among the best the Germans have, were contesting the American advance.

Heavy Allied air activity was reported over all of southern Italy with 10 German aircraft destroyed over the battle area.

Yesterday, the communique said, Allied heavy, medium and light bombers attacked road and railway junctions at Torre Del Greco and Pompei in the Bay of Naples and enemy installation southeast of Salerno. Roads near Pompei were again attacked last night. The previous night road junctions railways and enemy transport in the Potenza and Auletta areas were blasted by medium and light bombers.

In addition to the 10 enemy planes reported destroyed by Allied fighters yesterday three more were listed as shot down last night.

Allied losses in all these operations were put at three planes.

In a dispatch filed from the Fifth army front Reynolds Packard, representing the combined American press, said the Americans pushed forward several miles yesterday on the southern sector of the Salerno front and had repulsed a "suicidal" German counter-attack in the center which had cost the Nazis the heaviest losses they have yet suffered in Italy.

"The Allies also consolidated both their northern and southern flanks," the dispatch said.

It added that the Germans had temporarily regained a portion of the Salerno gulf highway which had changed hands several times, but only at high cost.

Both Allied warships and planes were said to be strongly supporting the American forces battling to enlarge their bridgehead.

The air and sea superiority which the Allies held in the south was a great military advantage, for it permitted them to hop along the coast and dump men and material ashore at almost any point and at the same time deny a similar privilege to the Germans.

It was becoming increasingly apparent, however, that Adolf Hitler was staking the future of Nazi Germany on the ancient battlegrounds of his one-time Axis partner.

From the cloudy military and political situation on the Italian mainland the best information available gave this picture:

1—Germany, with 15 to 20 divisions in Italy at the start of the campaign, has poured into the Italian boot tens of thousands more soldiers drawn from France and possibly Russia.

This, combined with the reported appointment of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel as commanding officer in Italy indicates that Germany is establishing a battle line which may satisfy even the Russian concept of a "second front"—one which will engage at least 50 Nazi divisions.

2—The Germans also are reinforcing their air strength in Italy.

3—Despite Italian surrender the Germans have a firm grip on all strategic points from Naples north to the Po river, where a great final battle may well decide the war.

4—The Americans are launched on a campaign which seems likely to be their biggest and bloodiest of the war and the biggest for British troops since the fall of France.

5—If Germany is defeated in Italy it likely means the collapse of her satellites in the Balkans.

Control Surface of Mediterranean Only

WASHINGTON— (UP)- Secretary of Navy Frank Knox said today that surrender of the Italian navy clears the Mediterranean of enemy surface craft but warned that the Germans can still put submarines "in there any time they want to."

Knox said at his news conference that the Allied struggle in the Salerno area of Italy, where Lieut Gen Mark Clark's fifth army is taking terrific blows from powerful German forces, is "hotly contested."

He had no official confirmation of German reports that the Americans are being evacuated by sea, however, but agreed that a "good stiff fight" is in progress.

Report Sharp Street Fighting In Rome

LONDON —(AP)— Bitter street fighting in Rome was reported by the Algiers radio today even as German propagandists were proclaiming the rebirth of Fascism under Benito Mussolini's personal command with a prediction that he would cancel Italy's capitulation, reorganized the Italian army and pronounce the end of the rule of the House of Savoy.

"Bitter opposition to the presence of the German forces in Italy is spreading all over the country," Radio Algiers reported, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press. "In the Balkans, too German troops have been challenged everywhere by Italian soldiers.

"Fierce fighting has occurred in Belgrade. Two thousand Italian soldiers are in the mountains of Montenegro where they are fighting against the Germans. The Balkans are seething with unrest and fighting."

Trying to distill new magic from the name of the man who once set thousands of Italians rocking to cries of "Duce," Nazi propagandists declared that news of Mussolini's liberation in a Hitler-engineered coup has caused "great jubilation" in northern Italy.

CONTROL AIR OVER BATTLE

had 10 planes in the air to every German aircraft."

A voice transmission from the Salerno front yesterday disclosed that on Sunday Nazi airmen occasionally tried to stab through the Allied air umbrella to get a crack at ground troops and the previous night attempted to raid Allied shipping in the Salerno gulf. All attacks were beaten off with losses by our air force.

Observers pointed out that possibly because of the fact that German fighters slip in and out on sneak strafing attacks from low levels, some dispatches may inadvertently convey the impression that the Germans hold air superiority over Salerno—a totally erroneous belief.

City's Budget For 1944 Cut $10,000 By County Board

will receive won't be as great as the rate slash indicates, City Auditor Paul K. Kelley said.

The reason is that the city's property valuation for tax purposes has been increased from $59,000,000 to $61,000,000, adding $2,000,000 to the duplicate for 1944 and making that much more revenue-producing property.

The city's estimated tax rate for next year is 15.8 mills as compared with 16.20 mills this year. If the two-tenths mill recreation levy passes this fall the city's tax rate will automatically go up to 16 mills, it was pointed out.

About the only items in the city's 1944 budget that were increased were the amounts set up for police and fire pensions. The total amount for pensions jumped to $28,734, including $14,544 for fire pensions and $14,190 for police pensions.

The funds needed for bonds dropped by virtue of more of the debt being retired during the past year and interest requirements becoming less.

The city will need only $26,230 for debts next year while the budget commission allocated $41,300 for the same purpose in 1943, accounting for the reduction in the tax rate, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said.

Allies Facing Triple Difficulty

LONDON—(AP)—Three-fold, related difficulties appear to be causing the stiff resistance the American and British are meeting in the Salerno area, where it is generally acknowledged the Allies are having a tougher fight than they ever had in North Africa or Sicily.

The three factors are:

The long distances planes must fly to protect the beachheads.

The difficulty of building up a heavy attacking force because of German ability to concentrate against a small area

Consequent inability so far to push the Germans back far enough to get the beaches out of Nazi artillery range.

'Miss America' To Sell Bonds

"Miss America of 1943" is 19-year-old Jean Bartel, blond, blue-eyed beauty of Los Angeles, who was crowned queen of the nation's beauties at the annual Atlantic City, N. J., beauty pageant. DECLARES RADIO AVOIDS 'VITAL' PUBLIC ISSUES IN BROADCASTS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The radio industry shows too much of a tendency to avoid "vital" public issues in its broadcasts in the opinion of Chairman James Lawrence Fly of the federal communications commission.

"There seems to be something of a tendency in the industry generally to restrict and exclude, rather than to lay down sound policies that will give us broader and more wholesome public service," Fly criticized during a press conference Monday.

Asked what would happen if the industry followed the tendency he described, Fly said "that would be a matter for the consideration of the commission."

"It is," he remarked, "something of a defensive complex that enters into this sort of thing, a tendency of the industry to avoid these vital questions on the public issues, to take refuge behind shibboleths rather than move out in a fundamental and vital way and grasp the issues and do something about rendering a public service in regard to them."

Fly asserted in response to another question that "from the standpoint of ideal service it may well be that there ought not be any sponsorship of news and comment. I would take no position on that. You certainly do have more splendid examples of courage in news reporters and commentators who are paid by the sponsors.

Saying that "a radio license is a public trust," Fly added: "I heard a so - called news program last night. It always is supposed to be a news program. Through the months it has been tending more and more to get away from the news of the day to the philosophies of the particular sponsor. Things like that are done in a somewhat subtle if not oversubtle manner."

REPORTS $26,000 THEFT

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Police Capt. Patrick J. Lynch reported today the theft of $26,820 from a trunk kept under the bed of a west side man who said he "liked to have my money where I can see it." The victim was Albert Schmeeberger.

DEADLINE RUSH

Income Taxpayers Flock To Postoffice For Filing.

The new 20 per cent withholding tax on income seemed to make little difference in the line of persons waiting in the postoffice to file income tax returns today.

Deputy tax collectors were busy helping Mansfielders with their tax reports in the office on the second floor of the postoffice and a line of persons down the hall and steps of the postoffice were waiting their turn.

Tomorrow is the deadline for filing returns and deputy collectors said the internal revenue office will be open this evening until 8 p. m. and tomorrow until 8 p. m.

Persons not subject to the withholding tax or those subject to it but earning more than $2,700 if single and $3,500 if married are required to file returns at this time, deputies said.

tion of the Russian command to mete out a similar fate to the Germans here but this attempt must be regarded as having failed," the broadcast continued.

"Not only did the Russians not succeed in encirling the German forces in this area but they neither succeeded in injuring the Germans to a considerable degree nor in laying a hand on the military establishments of the city which fell into German hands together with all their vast stores," it added.

The Russian communique announced last night that Red army forces had nearly completed entrapment of the German garrison and already had captured railway stations on the outskirts of the town.

Other Russian forces were storming ahead toward Kiev and the Dnieper river on sectors of the front which extended southward from Bryansk to the sea of Azov and the gateway to the Crimea, the Moscow war bulletin disclosed.

The hard-prissed Nazis reportedly paid heavily for their futile resistance. Upward of 2,000 German troops were slain when Soviet spearheads stormed Bryansk, the Russians declared.

Many prisoners were taken in this operation, and the Germans abandoned huge quantities of war supplies in their retreat to the high west bank of the Desna, the Moscow war bulletin added.

Capture of Bryansk opens the way for a drive on White Russia, 75 miles to the west.

Tire Recapping Plant In Pacific Starts Rolling

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS, SOUTH PACIFIC—(U.P)—The first recapped military tire turned out by army companies designated for that work was ready for use on July 23, just 15 days after work started on the recapping plant.

Capt. Angus L. Hanson of Norwood, N. J., former instructor in physical properties of materials at Columbia university, commanding officer of an ordnance tire repairing company, arrived here with his unit early in July. On July 8 they began work on their plant, which was completed on July 18. Installation of equipment began immediately and the first of thousands of tires which will be rebuilt here came out of the mold five days later.

Captain Hanson, who is assisted by Lt. Nicholas H. Fazzao of Westbrook, Conn., said the plant here is capable of turning out hundreds of recaps or section repairs weekly. He said thousands of pounds of first-grade rubber—prepared in strips for recapping work—arrived here with his company. The plant can handle anything from jeep tires to 14x20 truck tires and will rebuild tires for all types of military vehicles and airplanes.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—The radio address of Secretary Hull gives timely and much-needed administration leadership to public discussion about what we should do to make the victory last, although in content it is but a repetition of the position he took in his address of July 23 last year.

At that time Secretary Hull said, as he repeats now, that some international agency must be created which can, by force if necessary, keep the peace among nations in the future.

Clapper

Secretary Hull says it has now become possible to discuss some of the basic problems in greater detail, and that he expects to do so from time to time in the early future. Such authoritative leadership is very desirable.

Evidence abounds of strong public interest in making this war produce something better than the war-breeding anarchy that came out of the last one. Americans are hungry for dependable guidance as to what ought to be done. Some Republicans, like Willkie and Dewey, have made their suggestions, which is all to the good. But on this we need also guidance from the administration itself.

Americans seem to be reaching a common agreement that force must be used to prevent aggression in the future. They appear to be reaching a common agreement that we must bind ourselves in advance, in some degree, to take forcible action against any nations that breaks the peace.

Should that be done through alliances, especially with Great Britain, as Dewey and some other Republican leaders suggest? Or should it be done through an international organization as Secretary Hull advocates?

That perhaps is one basic question of method that needs further discussion now.

Might not the best course lie in following both patterns? That is exactly what Great Britain and Russia have done. Taking no chances on the future, they signed a 20-year treaty May 26, 1942, which provided for common action to resist aggression.

Yet both governments envisaged creation later of international machinery to prevent aggression, and provided that if such acceptable machinery developed both would participate in it regardless of their mutual treaty.

Whatever the president's program with regard to peace machinery may be, it will need the widest possible support in order to succeed. The League of Nations had a majority of the senate in favor of it to the very end. But it was not possible to obtain a two-thirds majority so the whole effort collapsed.

Vice-President Wallace over the week-end came to the support of the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill resolution to register the sense of the senate in favor of America taking the initiative in an international organization with force behind it. The White House and Secretary Hull have been conspicuously indifferent. Republicans met at Mackinac island last week and made some headway toward reaching common ground with the administration on the basic idea of working with other nations to prevent aggression. Yet the president was mocking in his press-conference comment and sought to belittle the whole effort of the Republicans.

As congress is returning this week, opportunity is afforded for renewing contact between the executive and the legislative. Never was it more important that congress and the public be told as much as possible about the war and the hopes to follow. The approach of another presidential campaign introduces a new cause of dissension. That makes more urgent a closer partnership of the White House, congress and the American people in the essentials which must prevail without regard to partisan politics and personalities.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—I now find myself in controversy with Francis K. Shepherd, the chairman of the draft board which has granted successive half-year deferments to second front Joe Curran, the vicarious Commando and president of the National Maritime Union. Mr. Shepherd recently stated that Comrade Curran was performing invaluable war work in maintaining his sector of the communist front in our merchant marine and he now advises me to desist from discussion of the comrade's deferments and other matters concerning the NMU. I had written that Curran, unlike common Americans of unquestionable patriotism who come before Shepherd's board, was in the favorable position of one who can write his own deferment. The way of that is this Curran and his fellow party-liners run the union absolutely and the union applies for deferment which then is granted by Shepherd and defended by him as a decision for the national benefit. Curran's latest deferment will carry him over into his 30th year and place him in the immune age bracket where he will be free to clamor for a second front in France without embarrassment. Less fortunate clients of the same draft board, meanwhile, will have gone to war.

Pegler

"Your articles," Shepherd writes me, "and the various supporting diatribes which have departed from the original field of legitimate criticism you at first affected, to one of labor-baiting, could well benefit by a new change of theme and would be most helpful to the morale and thought of the nation."

This is my first intimation that the selective service system was endowed with editorial powers or any of the duties of censorship and I have asked Shepherd to cite the section of the act which gave him authority to issue official admonitions to the press. I disagree, of course, with Shepherd, holding instead that his removal from the chairmanship of this particular board would much better serve the morale and thought of the nation, particularly of the eligible men under that board's jurisdiction, than my removal from print in compliance with the union's demand. I think the people will be, or anyway, should be, more disturbed to realize that the chairman of a draft board believes it to be of vital importance that this communist-front organization be held together by Comrade Curran.

While awaiting his answer I am puzzling over some interesting inconsistencies in the Curran case even while the communist organization maintains patrols at our newspaper offices demanding the suppression of important unpalatable truths about Curran, his union and certain obstreperous and insubordinate merchant sailors of the communist front.

If Curran is irreplaceable, as Shepherd has certified, and too precious to be risked in the fighting forces, and if the merchant service is as dangerous as the communist patrols allege, then Curran was guilty of a grievous offense against the national security in taking himself off to sea, as he did recently, in the guise of a sailor, bound for British, Russian and African ports on union business.

But the fact is that Comrade Curran has measured the risks and found them negligible. He didn't go to sea when the Murmansk run was a desperate gamble. He waited until conditions were so safe that this present voyage may be described as a pleasure cruise. And when I say his trip is a vacation I am not delivering my judgment, but Curran's own. For a black line on page one of Curran's official union publication, the Pilot, plainly says "Joe Curran's column will not appear during his vacation."

Other interesting data appears in the Pilot. It formally admits that the sailors who joined the communists in the patrol of the newspaper premises did so under orders from union headquarters and exults that the turnout was a great demonstration of union discipline. The Pilot says that all union sailors in the line were compelled to have their tickets punched to prove that they had marched and that failure to turn out without valid excuse would be a violation of union discipline. This would be grounds for expulsion from the union and exclusion from the sea at a time when there is so great a shortage of sailors that the War Shipping administration is compelled to turn over some 200 new American ships to other Allied nations for manning.

In the discipline of Comrade Curran's union, the maintenance of which Shepherd deemed "absolutely essential" to the war effort any anti-communist action is anti-union action and any opposition to the rule of Comrade Curran is disruption, punishable by expulsion. The union is now holding its own kangaroo courts, supplementing those of the coast guard, and ruling men off the sea for any conduct which it disapproves. On the other hand, when captains of vessels made charges individual insubordinates in their crews, the union habitually defends them and attacks the masters.

In view of these facts and of Shepherd's decision that it is absolutely essential that Comrade Curran be kept safe ashore to hold this organization together, I suggest that Shepherd's resignation or dismissal would be, in his own phrase, "most helpful to the morale and thought of the nation."

POLICE BAFFLED BY SLAYING OF MOVIE ACTOR

Stiletto Slaying of 'Masked Marvel' Presents Only Meager Clues.

HOLLYWOOD — Detectives seeking clues to the stiletto slayer of David Gaspar G. Bacon, jr., "Masked Marvel" of the movies, were as baffled today as any audience attending the thriller serial in which the actor played the title role.

The meager clues uncovered by an autopsy surgeon and the police department's top investigators as they probed the murder of the "Marvel," scion of a Massachusetts family prominent both socially and politically, served only to deepen the mystery.

The actor stumbled from his tiny car Sunday and bled to death in a Venice beanfield.

The very nature of the wound, eventually bringing death through hemorrhage of the left lung, indicated it might have been inflicted a considerable time before Bacon's British-made automobile was seen careening erratically from curb to curb, prior to its final plunge into the field.

Dr. Frank R. Webb, county autopsy surgeon who fixed the cause of death, found that the nearly nude body of the 29-year-old actor bore no other marks or bruises.

Detective Lieuts. Harry Fremont and Lloyd Hurst, seeking vainly to trace Bacon's movements after he left his skyline Hollywood home, Castle Hill, said they were working on a tentative theory that Bacon was slain by a hitch-hiker or chance acquaintance as he leaned forward in the tiny car, perhaps to close a door.

He was the grandson of Robert Bacon, secretary of state for Theodore Roosevelt and ambassador to France under President Taft.

A native of Barnstable, Mass., Bacon studied at Deerfield academy, Groton and Harvard. He appeared in and assisted in writing the university's exclusive "Hasty Pudding Club" show before his graduation in 1937.

ENVISIONS NEW GANGSTER ERA

Beverage Control Chief Says Shortages Offer Chance To Lawless Element.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — President M. L. Curtis of the National Alcoholic Beverage Control association today envisioned an America infested by prohibition era gangsters unless enforcement authorities act to combat wartime liquor shortage evils.

Curtis, in a speech prepared for the association's sixth annual meeting, said "The steadily dwindling reserve stock of distilled spirits, especially whiskies, is bringing many difficult problems in its wake."

Among major problems, he listed "rationing, price control, reduced state and national revenues, and most threatening of all, the return of the old time bootlegger with his poison hootch and the accompanying wave of racketeering, gangsterism and crime."

"The limited supply of legitimate liquor, enormously increased war taxes and the alcohol necessities for the war effort," he said, "combine to establish conditions comparable to the prohibition era which may create a gangsters' paradise."

Curtis said the association, with a membership of 14 of the nation's 17 monopoly liquor states, would seek increased aid from the treasury department's alcohol tax unit to meet enforcement problems stemming from the liquor scarcity.

Bootlegging interests already are active, some of them offering illicit spirits under nationally known trade brands, said Curtis, a member of Iowa's state liquor commission.

Mansfield and Richland county housewives, hearing rumors that soap may become scarce, are going back to the pioneer practice of making their own soap at home. They're not making it, however, with the consent of the government salvage officials who frown on the practice as one damaging to the war program. Making soap in the kitchen uses valuable fats that are needed in the making of munitions and explosives and it requires time that the housewife could be using to better advantage in preparing food for the family, it was pointed out by civilian defense officials.

Six-Alarm Fire Rages For Five Hours, Destroying Parochial School.

(By International News Service)

UNION CITY, N. J.—A six-alarm fire, one of the most spectacular in Union City's history, early today swept the four-story brick building of the Holy Family parochial school, leaving the structure an almost total loss.

Despite the rapid spread of the fire and its intensity, no one was injured. Seventeen nuns of the Franciscan Order, teachers in the school, were conducted safely from the burning building.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, started shortly after two a. m. and raged out of control for five hours.

The fire spread so quickly and assumed such proportions that six alarms were turned in, summoning apparatus from the adjoining towns of Hoboken, West New York, North Bergen and Jersey City.

Police began an immediate investigation of the fire. Fire department officials said that estimate of damage would not be available until later in the day.

DEMS ENDORSE FERGUSON IN 'SIDETRACKING'

Praise For Auditor Seen as Move To Quash His Hopes For Governorship.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — The endorsement of Democratic State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson for reelection by the "rump" meeting of Democrats he had called to discuss patronage today aroused speculation that a party move was afoot to sidetrack his aspirations for the governorship.

County chairmen and party leaders who attended the Democratic patronage rally Ferguson called here yesterday unanimously approved the motion of Clarence Graham, Zanesville, central committeeman, that "we endorse the best state auditor we ever had for another four years."

Ferguson, who was not present when the informal endorsement was given, said it came as a "surprise," and that "it is no indication of my intentions."

Ferguson was defeated by John McSweeney for the governorship nomination in the 1942 primary.

Conspicuously absent from the meeting were State Democratic Chairman Darrell S. Jones, Newark, object of Ferguson's attacks for alleged failure to obtain patronage for Buckeye Democrats; National Committeeman Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, attacked by Ferguson for the same reason, and Mildred R. Jaster, Cleveland; and Central Committee Chairman Albert A. Horstman, Dayton, who arrived at the hotel late in the meeting and did not leave his suite.

Ferguson, who threatened last May to oust Jones for his handling of patronage, confined his attacks upon Jones and Sawyer to the remark that "Jones hasn't produced the jobs he said would be produced by July 1."

Ferguson predicted Governor Bricker would seek a fourth term reelection and that he would be "doublecrossed" in his presidential aspirations by Sen. Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati.

Sabotage Trial on as U. S. Calls Witnesses.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—The government today calls its first witnesses in the war sabotage trial of the national Bronze and Aluminium company and seven of its officers to support opening charges the defendants sought to deceive the government and the Packard Motor Car company by welding defects in airplane engine castings.

The trial of the defendants, accused of war sabotage and fraud, opened yesterday with a charge by U. S. District Attorney Don C. Miller that the company sold defective aluminum castings for airplane engines to the Packard company, from whom it held a subcontract, despite repeated warnings from Packard officials.

Instead of scrapping the castings, Miller charged the defendants sought to deceive the company by welding the defects and then returning the castings.

Congress Returns After Recess

AS CONGRESS resumes sessions today it may be hoped that the weeks of rest and relaxation, enlivened by talks with "the folks back home," will have served to make senators and representatives more keenly conscious of the importance of expediting immediate tasks and getting a clear, non-partisan vision of the big job that lies ahead if domestic and international problems are to be intelligently solved.

It cannot be avoided that first attention will center on matters involved in prosecution of the war, both in its military phases and in the home front participation represented by industrial and agricultural production, manpower distribution, draft requirements, and financing through taxation.

Size of the army required to represent the United States in combat service has been a much debated subject and this appears to be a matter for military, rather than congressional, decision. Closely related, however, is the question of drafting fathers, to which a number of congressmen and senators have interposed vigorous objection, largely on the ground that quotas sufficient to meet all reasonable needs could be filled without taking such a drastic step at this time.

As congress considers limiting size of the army, the draft of fathers, and associated topics, it will be well to bear in mind that prospective needs for developing sufficient manpower to win the war cannot yet be estimated and that this will become the determining factor if the war is long continued and if American losses become comparable with those of Russia and Germany.

Extent to which men in the 30 to 38 age range have thus far proved physically unfit to undergo the rigors of training for combat service, indicates that it is in the younger age group that dependence must be placed for actual fighting on land and sea and in the air, and that older men are more likely to perform more satisfactorily in non-combat capacities, or in essential war production jobs, than as soldiers, sailors or airmen.

A long, uninterrupted session of congress preceded the recess that ended yesterday. It will be a very general hope that resumption of the session will carry through to the point of making discussion of peace topics current business instead of future aims.

Railroads Must Have Equipment

MORE than twenty million troops and more than eighty million tons of freight and express were moved by the railroads for the army during the first eighteen months of the war. In handling these troop movements, the railroads performed a total of 17,105,000,000 passenger miles of transportation service. Ninety thousand separate troop movement orders were issued to the railroads alone.

These orders called for the special handling of more than 12,000,000 troops and involved the use of 72,368 coaches, 214,881 sleeping cars, 49,987 baggage and kitchen cars, and 101,881 refrigerator, box, flat and gondola cars.

It is doubtful if any person of this generation who has actually lived to see a transportation miracle can appreciate what the railroads have done. It is a certainty that if the advisers of the dictators could have seen a preview of this miracle, they would have revised their estimates of the decadent democracies.

The big question now in the minds of railroad men is how will the next chapter read in the history of rail transportation? The miracle of the past eighteen months was accomplished at great cost to plant and equipment. Under expert management, trains have moved without rest, and ceaseless operation has exacted its toll of rails and rolling stock.

The railroads have asked for material based on minimum needs, which government authorities who control the nation's resources have not seen fit to grant them.

Recent disastrous wrecks, with heavy loss of life, are only one phase of the problem faced by railroads in their effort to maintain adequate passenger and freight services without having access to materials needed to maintain their rolling stock in serviceable and safe condition.

Football Tactics In Air Battles

YOUNG AMERICANS who have had football experience in high school or college must be getting quite a kick out of employing similar tactics in air fighting in the southwest Pacific, as the way in which fliers protect each other when aloft is remindful of the "interference" which other players provide while one of them is carrying the ball.

One big reason for U. S. air victories, it is explained, is teamwork and several American aces who have returned home from the battle fronts have given full credit for many of their victories to the valiant, unheralded performance of their "wing men." They admit they would never live to be aces if the wing men did not protect them from surprise attacks from the rear.

The wing men seldom, if ever, break into the headlines. They do not pile up a spectacular record of shooting down Japanese planes. They fly out on the "edge" of the fighting, so to speak, and guard the aces who are in there pouring death and destruction into Tojo's fliers.

American pilot morale is high, too, because they are given better protective armor and every effort is made to rescue them when their planes are shot down.

Someone asks, "Is the United States a permanent country?"—but, since advent of the "permanent wave," the adjective seems to have lost its enduring connotation.

An Egyptian who looks his claimed age of 132 years is in a Chicago hospital—and should not be mistaken for one of the numerous mummies from the same area.

Earl Browder is loudly critical of the Allies' conduct of the war—but thus far there has been no organized movement to put him in charge.

Someone thinks it shouldn't be overlooked that Rubber Man Jeffers quit of his own accord—that he wasn't bounced.

A SQUATTER ON THE PREMISES

An Analysis of Hitler's Appeal Reveals Fear of Panic at Home

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

HITLER'S screams of rage at Italy's "treachery," and his feverish efforts to offset the debacle with a bewildering barrage of propaganda and such theatricals as the establishment of a puppet government in Rome, show clearly that the moral effect of his Axis partner's collapse is like a knife between the ribs.

Frequently it's difficult to separate the moral and military effects as a confused moment like this, because military adversity follows the moral shock so quickly. However, it strikes me that in the long run the moral aspect of this historic surrender is going to be the biggest Allied gain.

Recognition of this drove the fuehrer to the microphone last week-end to try to prevent a stampede at home and abroad by double talk. That speech was underscored with fear.

It wasn't the same old arrogant Hitler who strove to produce oily words to pour on the troubled waters, but a badly frightened Herr Shicklegruber who found the oil barrel empty.

At least twice the master gangster trotted out the old bugbear of Allied intention to destroy Germany and other Axis countries—one of Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbel's favorite lines. "We all know that in this merciless struggle the defeated will be annihilated according to the wishes of our enemies," Hitler broadcast. And he declaimed that "all attempts to force the fate of an enslaved nation upon the German people will fail."

It was the same old Goebbel's dope the like of which I've heard the propaganda minister hand to a vast outdoor audience of 50,000 in Berlin—that if Germany loses the war "she will be broken up and destroyed."

* * *

WHY DID Hitler return to this idea so insistently? Undoubtedly because the humanitarian though firm manner in which the Allies have been handling the Italian situation makes him fear that the German people, and other Axis peoples, will realize that unconditional surrender doesn't mean that they are to be destroyed.

The whole world has been watching to see what would happen to a defeated member of the Axis. Now the world knows that while Italy must pay the full and heavy price for Mussolini's brigandage, she isn't going to be "annihilated" or "enslaved."

On the contrary, the world sees that the Allies even are preparing to lend the Italians a helping hand in the way of providing food and other essentials.

I believe that's going to have a tremendous effect on the German people and on other enemy countries. This may seem strange to Americans who aren't accustomed to think in bloodthirsty terms, but it becomes understandable when one stops to consider the manner in which Hitler not only literally has enslaved millions of unfortunates, but has murdered countless thousands in cold blood.

Italy's trust in the Allies is being registered by the spread of revolt against the Nazi invaders. The Balkans are vibrating with the hope of ridding themselves of the German octopus.

However, this doesn't mean that the Allies are getting soft. It's two-fisted force which has brought the United Nations success, and we're not going to ease up on that one whit.

Italy has been smashed. Germany and Japan will be smashed. Undoubtedly some heads will roll, for gangsters like Hitler and Mussolini and Tojo can't go free, but certainly nobody has any intention of wiping the guilty countries off the map.

Hitler is afraid that his people will sense this from what is happening in Italy, and that they will give up the unequal fight. The German public is beginning to understand that the Reich is beaten. As a matter of fact Hitler virtually told them in his speech that he was going to withdraw his battle lines to the frontiers of the Fatherland.

They are the words of a broken world-beater.

THE OPA has announced that housewives can expect a further cut in food prices through its new subsidy program. That sounds good until you ask who pays the subsidies.

It doesn't help much to save on the grocery bill if you have to pay that saving, or more, out in taxes. If producers must have more money for their products it seems kind of silly for the customers not to pay it to them instead of using the government for a middleman.

* * *

All I can make out of his program is that he thinks we should all strive for the carefree, happy, perfect world if it ruins us.

* * *

Hitler says Mussolini is one of the most outstanding men of all time as the best leader Italy had since Caesar. Well, Benito used to think the same of Adolf.

It's just a case where Hitler is going to be a little later than Mussolini in discovering his mistake.

Timely Editorial

Cause and Effect.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, says manpower and equipment shortages are the probable "indirect causes" of the disastrous train wrecks on the Pennsylvania and New York Central in which scores of persons were killed and hundreds injured. The railroads, he said, are forced to "drive their equipment as it never has been driven before" and to use "many green hands" because of continual turnover in operating and maintenance personnel.

Thus there appears still another one of the tragic fruits of the bungled manpower problem, handling of which has been marked by the overlapping authority, conflicting claims and lack of adequate over-all direction and planning which is a familiar characteristic of the unwieldy and politically-minded federal bureaucracy.—Columbus Dispatch.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

'Penalized' Producer

I MET a farmer on the city street. He wore a suit of denim and a weatherbeaten straw hat. He had a frown upon his full round face, and his long dark eyebrows were knit. He seemed unaware of the many folks who passed him, as he strode along—a ponderous body on stocky muscular legs, with horny hands clasped behind him.

When he came up to where I stood, I greeted him. Surprised he came to himself, and said—"I forgot. My car is five blocks down the other way. I've just paid my taxes, and ever since I left the courthouse I've been puzzled."

I waited, wondering.

"Last year I paid $90 for the half. This year I paid $120 for the same. I can't see how they figure."

"Did you improve your farm?"

"Yes—I built another silo, painted and repaired the house; and had electricity put into the barn. For the last ten years I've limed my land and plowed down cover crops. I conserve the manure beneath a roof and put that on, too. Why, one acre, now raises a lot more than it did when I first came there.

"I have a neighbor who laughed when we moved onto that place and said we'd starve. Now, since I've made a study of that soil and got some pointers at the Wooster experiment farm, one acre of mine'll grow twice what his acre will, just over the fence.

"But what's got me, just today, is this: My taxes are almost twice what my neighbor's are, too. For every ton of lime and every year of hard work, seems like the government exacts a penalty from me. Taint wisdom, as I see it.

"I've got a good old shepherd dog at home that does lots of useful things around the place. I've taught him to bring the cows from pasture and to herd sheep for hours at a time. I did it by giving him a reward every time he would do what I asked of him. If I'd given old Shep a kick in the ribs instead of a friendly pat, I'd 'a had to shoot him years ago.

"Is it fair to tax a farmer for doin' a good job? Or a business man either, for that matter? How come it's that way—can you tell me?"

I shook my head. He rolled away down the street, still muttering, in the direction of his parked car.

Daily Bible Thought

Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine, no more can ye, except ye abide in me.—John 15:4.

ODD FACT

Opposition to Pearson Proposal To Raise Salary of Congressmen

WASHINGTON—Several weeks ago this observer had the temerity to suggest that we revise the low salary of the poor congressman. With living costs up, wages pyramiding, with congressmen facing the problem of maintaining two homes, carting their children all around the country, and spending almost as much on campaign expenses as their annual salary, I suggested that an increase in congressional pay was long overdue and would help to provide better, more efficient congressmen.

Seldom has the resultant storm of mail been so heavy, so scathing and so abusive. The public, if that cross-section of mail is any criterion, does not like congress. At $10,000 a year, it considers a congressman overpaid, overstuffed and underdone.

Having lived close to congressmen, and having considered them reasonably conscientious, definitely hard working, and generally patriotic, I was surprised at this deluge of wrath from the people who elect them.

I was also alarmed. You cannot make a democratic system of checks and balances work efficiently if confidence in either the legislature or the executive is undermined. In Germany it was not until the petty blundering of the reichstag had destroyed public confidence that Hitler came into power. In France it was not until both the chamber of deputies and the various French cabinets had sapped government prestige that France fell.

The U. S. A. in my opinion is a long way off from anything like this. Nevertheless, it might be a good idea for the gentlemen who come back to the halls of congress this week to do a little inventory-taking as to what decreases their most important sock-in-trade—public confidence.

What's Wrong?

HERE ARE a couple of traits which they might think over:

1. The egocentric, cocksure idea that a congressman is above sin, plus the haste of his colleagues to gather around and protect him if someone on the outside raises the whisper of suspicion.

2. Being very vulnerable themselves, the alacrity with which most congressmen rush in to cast the first stone at somebody else.

In other words, before it can heave bricks at an ex-ballet dancer recommended by civil service for a government job, congress is going to have to clean out its own Augean stables.

Probably nothing has decreased public esteem of congress more than the current travesty by which one of their own members has turned the investigational force of the powerful house of representatives against the government agency which had the temerity to do its duty and recommend him to the justice department for criminal prosecution.

The case is complicated and the public at first was slow to catch on. But the case has snow-balled. And now most of the American people fully understand the significance of the manner in which Congressman Eugene Cox of Georgia, a crony of Speaker Sam Rayburn, was able to take a $2,500 check for alleged illegal lobbying with the Federal Communications Commission, and then not only escape prosecution, but get his colleagues to vote $60,000 of the taxpayers' money to "investigate" the agency which accused him.

Taxpayers' Money.

NOT ONLY did he get $60,000 of the taxpayers' money (in addition to the salaries of six Cox relatives on the public payroll) but he also got himself appointed chairman of the committee to "persecute" the FCC. As such, he and his colleagues have set a new high-water mark for unfair and unAmerican investigational practices. Here is the latest.

All summer Cox's committee has been holding hearings at which its side of the story has been presented. The FCC's story has been barred. There has been no chance of rebutting the various Cox charges. Congressional committees are supposed to hear both sides, but not Cox's committee.

Furthermore, Committee Counsel Eugene Garey has now gone to the extent of striking from the record various reports or questions asked by him which put the FCC in a favorable light.

Three years ago, when testifying before the attorney general's committee on administrative procedure, Garey complained bitterly that SEC officials told "the stenographer what to put in the record and what not to put in the record" at public hearings. Therefore, he said, the record was never complete.

But recently the shoe has been on the other foot. For instance Garey accused the FCC of "doctoring" a memo on Fascist activities which had been submitted to the Office of Censorship. FCC Counsel Nathan David denied the charge and gave an explanation which made Garey look absurd.

"I ask that Mr. David's words be physically stricken from the record," said Garey; looking as if he wished he had never brought the matter up. Chairman Cox immediately agreed.

One-Sided Record.

SO NOW the official transcript does not show the remarks of Garey, Cox or David, merely the notation: "At the point a statement was made by Mr. Nathan David which was ordered physically stricken from the record."

The official record is full of deletions of this kind—whenever anything is said favorable to the FCC.

All summer the Cox committee has been telling the FCC that it would get its turn for rebuttal—later. But after one recent session, the committee dropped word to the press that its report would be made to congress in September—without giving the FCC its chance to reply. Then on the strength of this one-sided report, Chairman Cox intends to ask his colleagues to vote more of the taxpayers' money to continue the hearing. At present he has spent most of the original $60,000.

The boys on Capitol Hill may not realize it, but this is the type of unfair unAmericanism which gets them in wrong with the American people. The boys don't seem to know that they face a much more alert and intelligent electorate than a few years ago. And upon whether or not they gang up to vote their poker-playing crony Congressman Cox of Georgia another $60,000 will help to measure their all too scanty prestige with the folks back home.

ERNIE PYLE — Roving Reporter

Ernie Finds Things Much the Same When He Come Home to "Rest His Head."

WASHINGTON—How should a war correspondent who has been away a long time begin his first column after he returns to his homeland?

Frankly, I don't know. I can't truthfully say "My, it's wonderful to be back," because I haven't had a moment to sense whether it's wonderful or not. In my first 48 hours in America I got two hours' sleep, said "No" 324 times, lost my pocketbook and caught a bad cold.

That pocketbook business, incidentally, is sort of disheartening to a guy who returns full of eagerness for his own people. The wallet contained about $100 and all my war department credentials and private papers. It had my name and address in it at least a dozen times, but it has not yet been returned.

Whoever got it, if he had a crumb of decency, could certainly send back the papers even if he kept the money. Anybody who wouldn't do that, it seems to me, would make a fine client for some oil-boilers. This thing happened in New York on my first day home. And here I've been ranting for a year about the lowly Arab!

PERHAPS you who read this column wonder why I came home just at this special time, when events are boiling over in Italy.

Well, I might as well tell you truthfully. I knew, of course, that the Italian invasion was coming up, but I chose to skip it. I made that decision because I realized, in the middle of Sicily, that I had been too close to the war for too long.

I was fed up, and bogged down. Of course you say other people are too and they keep going on. But if your job is to write about the war, you're very apt to begin writing unconscious distortions and unwarranted pessimisms when you get too tired.

I had come to despise and be revolted by war clear out of any logical proportion. I couldn't find the Four Freedoms among the dead men. Personal weariness became a forest that shut off my view of events about me. I was no longer seeing the little things that you at home want to know about the soldiers.

When we fought through Sicily, it was to many of us like seeing the same movie for the fourth time. Battles differ one from another only in their physical environment—the emotions of fear and exhaustion and exaltation and hatred are about the same in all of them. Through repetition, I had worn clear down to the nub my ability to weigh and describe. You can't do a painting when your oils have turned to water.

There is, in the months and years ahead, still a lot of war to be written about. So I decided, all of a sudden one day in Sicily, that you who read and I who write would both benefit in the long run if I came home to refreshen my sagging brain and drooping frame. To put it bluntly, I just got too tired in the head. So here I am.

IT HAS been 15 months since I left America. Things at home have changed a lot in that time, I'm sure. But at first glance there doesn't seem much change.

When I rode in from the airport in New York, and checked into the hotel, everything was so perfectly natural that it truly seemed as though I had never been away at all. It was all so normal, so exactly like what it had been on other returns that I couldn't realize that now I was going through that beautiful hour that millions of our men overseas spend a good part of their waking hours yearning for and dreaming about. I do hope that when their hour comes, they'll find themselves more capable of enthrallment by it.

ON THE WHOLE, the few little things that struck me the most were normal things that I had thought would be gone by now. I was surprised to find sugar bowls on the table. We have plenty of sugar in the army overseas, but we had figured you were very short over here.

And I was astonished at finding the store windows of New York looking so full and so beautiful. I'd like to take a pocketful of money and just go on a spree, buying everything that was smart and pretty whether I really wanted it or not.

We've had nothing to spend money on for so long, over on the other side. The countries we've been in were so denuded; why, England was shorter of everything after one year of war than we are after nearly two.

The decline of traffic on the streets was noticeable; and how much nicer it is too, isn't it? In fact, it's too nice, and I propose to recreate some of our old congestion by getting out my own jalopy and dashing nonessentially around the streets for a month or so.

Well, anyway, on second thought, it's wonderful to be home.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Remember before we were married how thrilled you were about us having a neat little home of our own? What's the matter . . . have you lost interest?!"
